DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION IN ST. LOUIS AMENDS RULES TO NAME CANDIDATES BEFORE PLATFORM IS COMPLETED.

IN UPROAR FOR WILSON

Delegates in Demonstration Lasting Twenty Minutes When Chairman James Lauds President's Foreign Policies.

Coliseum, St. Louis, June 15.—The democratic national convention changed its program of procedure and agreed to make nominations for vice president tonight instead of tomorrow. The rules were amended and the convention will assemble at nine o'clock, to remain in continuous session until nominations are made.

With one demonstration after another the democratic convention registered its approval of President Wilson's conduct of foreign affairs, which kept the country at peace.

When permanent Chairman James recounted diplomatic achievements of the president in the negotiations with Germany, the convention launched into an eighteen-minute uproar of cheering, waving and waving of flags.

By unanimous vote, the democratic convention rules committee recommended that nomination for President and vice president, began at nine o'clock. The proposal was carried after an extended argument in its behalf by Chairman Glasgow Jr., of Pennsylvania. His attitude had the support of democratic leaders generally.

Mr. Glasgow's chief contention was that it would be impossible to hold the delegates later tonight and it would be poor politics to make the nomination with seats empty.

The New York delegation, he said, would leave for home tonight, regardless of when nominations were made. Charles B. Strecker, Massachusetts, opposed the change of program. He insisted it was due the St. Louis business men who had given committee a bonus of $100,000 for the convention.

Mr. Sullivan said he had never been a candidate.

At 11:45 a. m. Chairman Glynn called the convention to order.

The committee on rules voted unanimously to recommend to the committee that nominations be made at eight o'clock tonight.

Convention leaders let it be known they intended making nomination tonight, whether or not the platform was completed.

At 12:05 p. m. Senator James was introduced as permanent chairman and began his speaking on platform.

With a copy of President Wilson's suggestions for planks in the hands of every member the sub-committee on resolutions of democratic convention, he said he did not expect the draft to be ready for the convention, before tonight's proceedings will not be presented until tomorrow.

News of the selection of Vance McCormick as the president's choice for national chairman, came as a surprise to members of his committee.

That was a "white house" list of suggestions. The committee will meet Saturday morning and formally name McCormick. All of the candidates who have been named for the chairmanship, will withdraw immediately.

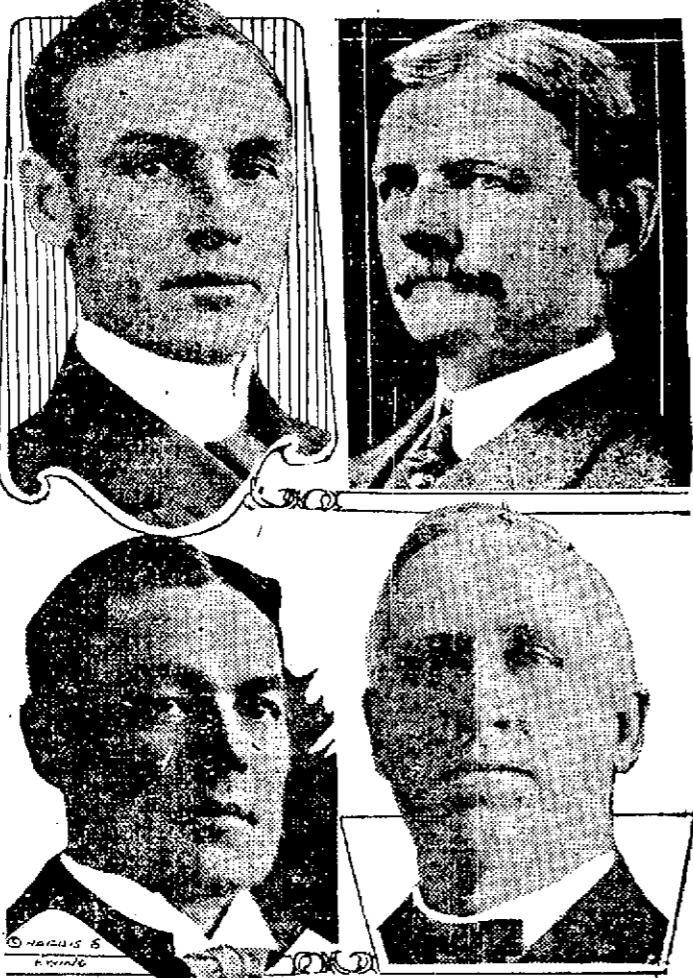

Keynote Stirs Enthusiasm.

Still fired with the enthusiasm stirred up yesterday by the keynote speech of Governor Glen of New York on Americanism, prepared peace and prosperity, delegates today crowded into the coliseum.

Here the democratic national convention is expected to hear some important doctrine expounded by leaders of the democracy.

While the sub-committee and the resolutions committee were engaged in their work of platform building, the program called for the permanent organization of the convention, another keynote speech to be delivered by the permanent chairman, and the election of addresses by well known leaders in the party.

The committee on permanent organization recommended Senator Ollie James of Kentucky for permanent chairman, and the committee on resolutions recommended the program called for the permanent organization of the convention, another keynote speech to be delivered by the permanent chairman, and the election of addresses by well known leaders in the party.

THESE MEN WILL BE CONSIDERED FOR VICE PRESIDENT AT ST. LOUIS MEETING

These men are all active or passive candidates for the democratic vice presidential nomination. Major is making a determined fight for the place. Owen of Oklahoma and Morehead of Nebraska have been endorsed for vice president by the Democrats of their respective states.

night as none too favorable to their cause. Only three of its members, Representative Rainey of Illinois, Senators Walsh of Montana, and Hollis of New Hampshire, are outspoken for suffrage it was declared, while four, Senator Martin of Virginia, Governor Stanley of Kentucky, Senator Pomeroy of Ohio and Representative Fitzgerald of New York are against it. The other two, Chairman Stone and former Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, are believed to hold the endorsement of suffrage, but not for a constitutional amendment plan.

"Hyphenate" Plank Pleases.

Washington, June 15.—Out of the flood of messages reaching the White House today from the democratic national convention at St. Louis, those of special interest to President Wilson were of the reception of his proposed plank condemning citizens of foreign birth for political activity in behalf of their native land.

The boom of Rogers Sullivan for vice president, which today and at a caucus of the Illinois delegation, Mr. Sullivan said he had never been a candidate.

GERMANS CONTINUE VIOLENT BOMBARDMENT OF IMPORTANT FRENCH POSITION, PARIS ADMITS.

REPORT SLAVS HALTED

Austrians Make Firm Stand to North and East of Czernowitz, Says Berlin Report—Activity on Other Fronts.

Paris, June 15.—The Germans are continuing their violent bombardment of the French position north of Verdun, the key to the inner defense of Verdun, the official statement issued by the French war office today states. No infantry fighting occurred on either bank of the Meuse last night. On the Vosges front, some minor German attempts to attack the French lines were made, but completely failed, according to the official statement.

Bar Way to Czernowitz.

Berlin, June 15.—Austrian troops in Bukovina are making a stand north of Czernowitz, capital of the crownland, and also are holding the Russians to the east of the city. The repulse of Russian attacks from both these directions is announced in official headquarters statement from Vienna, issued under date of June 14.

Russian troops in dense formation attacked the tautonic lines near Frelwodka, but were repulsed by General von Bothmer's troops. It was announced officially today.

Take Austrian Trenches.

Rome, June 15.—A surprise attack was made yesterday on Austrian positions east of Montecione. The official statement of today announced that Italians captured Austrian trenches after a severe engagement, taking several hundred prisoners and seven machine guns.

Check British Advance.

Constantinople, June 15.—The repulse of an attempt to advance by British forces that remained in the Tigris below Kut el Amara, after the surrender of General Townshend, was announced by war office today. The engagement occurred on the right bank of the river near Fehlah.

Gain in African Campaign.

London, June 15.—The British column which is advancing into German East Africa, along the seaport, has occupied several more towns. A report from General Smuts, the British commander, says on June 13, this force reached Makuyuni. It was found that the German forces had been cleared of opposing forces.

GREEKS IN ATTACK ON ALLIES' POLICY

Resolution Adopted at Meetings Held Today in Athens Pledge Loyalty to King Constantine.

Athens, via London, June 15.—The attitude of the allies towards Greece was denounced at a number of meetings held here today, at which resolutions were adopted expressing loyalty to King Constantine and confidence in the policy of Premier Skouloudis. The resolutions protested against the blockade of Grecian ports and the active intervention of France, and denounced the conduct of the allies toward neutral nations, and especially towards the president of the United States of America.

A feature of the resolution was that the king was referred to as "our Glorious Sovereign, King Constantine XII." This title placed the monarch in line of ancient rulers of Constantinople.

It is understood that Henry Johnson will refuse to allow his name to be passed upon by the conference. Political rumblings here say that Johnson will seek the endorsement of the conservative conference, which will meet here some time later. A. R. Emerson of the state banking department and mentioned as possible candidates for state treasurer on the progressive ticket.

There seems to be no opposition to Lieutenant Gov. E. P. Dittmar of Barabeno, who has been named by the progressive conference. Senator J. Henry Bennett of Viroqua will be the candidate for attorney general on the conservative slate.

CONFERS WITH WILSON ON PENDING QUESTION

Date May be Set For Flying Date on Deciding Philippine Question.

Washington, June 15.—Chairman Hitchcock of the senate Philippines committee announced after a conference with President Wilson today no efforts would be made to embody in the Philippine legislation pending in congress, a provision setting a definite date for independence of the islands. Senator Hitchcock said he expected the senate to accept the bill already passed by the house providing greater self-government for the islands without insisting upon the Clarke independent amendment.

Chief of Police at Grand Rapids Hits Snag When He Seeks Officer to Chase Speeders.

Grand Rapids, June 15.—Grand Rapids motorists were up in arms over the action of the common council in voting to put on motorcycle policemen in the city. The alarm, however, was entirely unfounded because when the chief of police went to hire the officer he found it impossible to get a man to take the work. The proposition to give the policemen a special certificate of the lines collected.

FIVE DEAD, FORTY-EIGHT
MISSING IN BOAT WRECK
OFF COAST OF CALIFORNIA

Five Known to Have Been Killed When Boat Strikes Craggy Reef Off California Shore.

Eureka, Cal., June 15, 3:40 P. M.—131 Survivors from the wrecked steamer, Bear, have been landed here by the steamer Grace Dollar, and the tug, Relief. Twenty-nine others are at Capetown. Four are still on the Bear. Five are known to be dead. This accounts for 169 persons out of 212 known to have been aboard the Bear.

Eureka, Cal., June 15.—Five bodies have been recovered from the steamer Bear, wrecked last night on Sugar Loaf Rock. Two boatloads of survivors have come ashore. One boat is reported trying to land, and the remaining passengers and crew are said to be aboard the tug, Relief.

Rescue steamers continued to roam about in the fog without a chance of seeing the boat. The high light on the coast usually lifts the fog, but today the mist cleared, however, the craggy shoreline was specked with farmers and villagers, alive to any chance of rescue. Four miles inland they had been aroused by the roaring of the Bear's whistle, when she struck. First a long blast, then three short ones, then another long one shook the air. There were no more.

Report Rescues.

San Francisco, June 15.—The naval radio station on Goat Island, reported today the steamer Schollar had taken to Eureka sixty-two passengers rescued from the steamer Bear.

Some Survivors.

Eureka, Cal., June 15.—Eighty-two survivors of the 218 persons aboard the coasting steamer Bear, wrecked last night near Cape Mendocino, had been accounted for, and five persons were known to have perished at 10:30 a. m. today.

Among the survivors two were reported fatally injured. Many sustained minor injuries and all are suffering from exposure. The two boats landed at the mouth of Bear river during the night.

The first boat away from the wreck upset, and almost surely all thirty persons in it were drowned, according to Miss Vera Adams of Seattle, a survivor.

Miss Adams was in the third boat, which also upset. Most of the thirty occupants of her boat were rescued.

Indications are that a boat load of passengers were lost, with good chances that everyone else had been or would be rescued.

TRACKS OF ORPET

TESTIMONY TODAY

Witnesses Testify of Tracks Around Body of Dead School Girl in Orpet Murder Trial.

Vaukegan, Ill., June 15.—The tracks made in the snow of Helms woods were still the subject of minute examination today at the trial of William Orpet charged with the murder of Marion Lambert.

William Marshall concluded his testimony and was followed on the stand by Fred Wenban, the Lake Forest undertaker who was summoned by Marshall and removed Marion's body from the woods. Wenban referred to tracks made in the snow by Marion and Orpet as old tracks, as they were made the day before Marion and Frank Lambert found the body and others attracted to the scene later.

Wenban said he examined the old footprints carefully. The small ones and larger ones led into the woods to the three oak trees, where Marion's body was found. The larger ones went away alone to a muddy spot overgrown with weeds. From the weeds the witness said they returned to the spot where there were four oaks. They then entered a semi-circle to the spot where the body was found. The body had been taken to Wenban's mortuary in the forenoon. It was frozen, he said, having lain in the snow nearly twenty-four hours.

In the course of his testimony the witness spoke of noticing a stain in the snow similar to the yellowish white stain on Marion's right hand. It was in the mud made by the man leaving the body, he said. This point has been regarded as important by the state as supporting its theory that the man in company carried the remainder of the poison from which she died, away with him. The undertaker made another point for the state which holds the cyanide of potassium was brought to my place," said he. "Gradually it dried."

U. S. TROOPS ATTACKED IN BANDIT RAID

TWO AMERICAN SOLDIERS ARE KILLED AND SEVEN WOUNDED IN NIGHT FIGHT ON BORDER.

CARRANZA NOTE READY

Will Defer Sending Answer Refusing to Withdraw Troops Until Next Week—Another Villa Bandit Captured.

Laredo, Tex., June 15.—American Consul General, at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, has wired the state department at Washington recommending the city be placed under martial law, according to a seemingly authorized report here.

San Antonio, June 15.—On the body of one of the bandits recovered after fight at San Ignacio, were found papers indicating he was an officer in the Carranza army, according to a late report from General Mann. The total number of Mexican dead is now placed at eight, the American dead at three, and wounded at six.

San Antonio, June 15.—Two American soldiers were killed early this morning in a fight with bandits near San Ignacio, forty miles northeast of Laredo, according to reports from General Punton. Six of the Mexicans were killed in an engagement that began at two o'clock. It is believed several Mexicans were wounded, but they were carried away by their companions. The American wounded was seven.

Mexicans amounted to one hundred attacked Troops I and M. Their sharp attack was met with a spirited defense, and at the end of half an hour the Mexicans were in retreat but not until they killed two American troops and wounded seven. From the brush in the country about the camp there were recovered this morning the bodies of six Mexicans. Seven dead horses also were found.

Major Gray with two troops of the Fourteenth cavalry began pursuit. The water-soaked clothing of the dead Mexicans was reported as indicating they crossed the river from Mexico. At the time the official report was made by Major Gray, he had not ascertained the name of the Mexican leader, but information which showed from where they came, or just what organization they belonged to.

Gen. Gray's Report.

News of the latest Mexican raid into American territory which United States troops lost two killed and seven wounded, while they were killing six bandits, and wounding many more, reached the war department today in a report from Brigadier General Mann. The report of Major Gray follows:

"Troops I and M of the fourteenth cavalry at San Ignacio were attacked at 2:00 a. m. by a party of about one hundred Mexicans. After a fight of half an hour the Mexicans were driven off. Two soldiers were killed and seven wounded. Bodies of six Mexicans and six dead horses were found. The clothing of the dead men was showing they crossed the river. Major Gray, in command, telephoned that the attacking party was scattered and thinks they were being killed as they fled. He is trying to find the trail and Gray will follow it with his whole force when it is found."

Laredo, Tex., June 15.—Reached here late that one of the wounded American soldiers, shot through the head, had since died. The latest information says that eight of the Mexicans were killed and the forty-two horses captured in the pursuit. Colonel Brown has requested county officials to warn all Mexicans in ranches near here to get away from the river.

Washington, June 15.—Secretary Lansing laid before President Wilson today the completed draft of a note to General Carranza replying to the demand that American troops be withdrawn from Mexico. The president and Mr. Lansing conferred at length on the situation. Unless some new development forces the situation, the reply will not be sent until next week at the earliest. President Wilson and his advisers are anxious to deal with the Carranza note, and in such fashion that action cannot be attributed to domestic politics.

As prepared by Secretary Lansing, it is understood the note flatly declines to withdraw American troops from Mexico until the de facto government has shown both its willingness and its ability to police the border states properly. It also is said to make sharp reference to suggestions of the Mexican communication, which officials regard as discourteous and uncalled for.

Carranza's request for a new statement of the intentions of the United States toward Mexico, probably will be complied with.

Capture Bandit Leader.

Field headquarters, June 14, via radio to Columbus, N. M., June 14.—Colonel Pedro Lujan, one of the most prominent Villa chieftains remaining alive, was captured yesterday by Captain F. G. Turner, commanding Troop M, 15th cavalry, at Hacienda. Lujan was one of the leaders in the raid on Columbus, March 9. His capture nearly completes the extermination of Villa leaders in the raid across the border.

Bridal couple straying into the headquarters camp on their honeymoon, revealed the hiding place of Lujan, who was ill. Before daybreak Capt. Turner and his men rode into Hacienda and found Lujan.

The chieftain denied his identity, declaring he was a poor peon. He almost convinced the Americans when they caught sight of a gold tooth. He was brought here a prisoner and subsequently admitted his identity.

Alamo Antevies, a former Carranza lieutenant, who turned bandit, and rallied Carranza forces, was killed in one of his many wives, is dead, slain by one of his two remaining followers in a quarrel over a woman.

SAYS GERMANS WILL VOTE FOR HUGHES

That the Germans in this country whose hearts are close to the Fatherland will vote solidly for Hughes is the statement of Alphonse G. Koebbe of the German-American Alliance.

Koebbe helped to manage the congressional campaign in behalf of the Gore and McLeome resolutions, and has expressed great dissatisfaction with President Wilson's handling of the situation.

Washington, June 15.—President Wilson today signed a bill incorporating the boy scouts of America and giving the organization the exclusive right to the use of that name. Colin Livingston, president, and the other officials of the organization, and a group of ranking Washington scouts, witnessed the signing. The president was told the membership was 122,000, boys and 43,000 men.

MISS ELSIE FERGUSON NOT TO LEAVE STAGE AFTER HER WEDDING, PERFORMED TODAY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, June 15.—Miss Elsie Ferguson, who is playing with Sir Herbert Tree at the New Amsterdam Theatre, is to be married today to Thomas B. Clarke, Jr., at the St. Regis Hotel. Their engagement was announced two months ago.

"Are you going to retire from the stage after, well, after next month's happy event?" Miss Ferguson was asked.

"You mean my marriage? Am I going to retire from the stage then? Oh, no, decidedly not," she replied. "I am looking for a play now, preferably a comedy, and I expect to resume my career again in the autumn."

"I said I would not retire after my marriage. I mean not immediately, but I shall not remain on the stage too long."

At the wedding Miss Carroll Brown, of Portland, Me., will attend Miss Ferguson and Frank L. Polk, of this city and Washington, D. C. Counselor of the State Department will be Mr. Clarke's best man.

The wedding will be a private one because of a recent bereavement in Mr. Clarke's family. After a trip of two months the couple will occupy an apartment here. Mr. Clarke is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Clarke.

SURVEY BEING MADE FOR DETAILED SOIL MAP OF THE COUNTY

Every Farm in Rock County Will be Visited by State and Federal Experts Employed in the Work.

Rock county will likely be placed on the detailed soil map of Wisconsin this summer. Representatives of the state and federal soil departments have already commenced the work.

Starting from Janesville, the survey will be extended to all parts of the county, every farm will be visited and the data taken in detail. The survey will probably take the most desirable methods of cultivation and fertility control are essential to a good system of farm management. Without a complete survey of the resources of the county's soils these general facts are only obtained through private investigation. The completed survey report will include a carefully prepared map of the county, showing all towns, cities, roads, highways, water courses, hills, valleys and varying soil types.

Object of the Survey.

A thorough knowledge of the various soil types within the county and their relation to different crops and rotations, together with the most desirable methods of cultivation and fertility control are essential to a good system of farm management. Without a complete survey of the resources of the county's soils these general facts are only obtained through private investigation. The completed survey report will include a carefully prepared map of the county, showing all towns, cities, roads, highways, water courses, hills, valleys and varying soil types.

The men who are doing the work are well known by experience and special study. The soil is the most desirable depth of 36 inches or more, and each kind listed according to texture, surface features, amount of organic matter, and the soil's ability to retain water. The soil types of the land ten acres or less in area will be noted.

Cover Half of State.

Preliminary surveys of some of the less thickly settled counties to the north are also in progress, but the work includes three or more counties in one survey, and lacks the detailed character of the investigations now under way here. Up to the present time these general or preliminary surveys cover more than 51 per cent of the state's area, while the more detailed surveys include about 18 per cent.

This summer detailed county surveys are being made in Door, Waushara and Milwaukee counties, as well as in Rock county. Reports will be available on these surveys within a year, and only in limited areas will the first editions be usually rather small.

Connected with the soil survey and related closely to its work is the state soil laboratory, of which W. W. Weir, director, is in charge. The laboratory is the field agent in this district. This service provides for detailed individual examinations and soil analyses of farms, either alone or in groups of five or more in the same township, the fees varying with the amount of land examined. The reports are made out by the field agent after careful laboratory examination, and include recommendations for fertilization for the improvement of the farms in question.

Use State Laboratory.

Rock county are among the foremost in the state to take advantage of the state soils laboratory service, there having been more than 36 individual farm examinations made since the law was enacted three years ago.

More information relative to the soil survey and the individual service provided by the state soils laboratory may be had by writing to A. R. Whitson, W. J. Geib, Soils Department, Madison.

QUIET WEDDING OCCURS AT THE ST. MARY'S CHURCH

This morning at the St. Mary's parsonage Miss Elsie Schneider of White-water was united in marriage to John Geibel of Waukegan by the Rev. Father Geibel of the St. Mary's church. The bride was attended by Miss Rhoda McCluskey and the groom by Fred Geibel, brother of the groom. A three course wedding breakfast was served at the St. Charles hotel by Mrs. Della Dulin. The happy couple departed for Minneapolis at 11:35. They will make their home in Whitewater after August first.

MANY COMPETE IN TRAP TOURNAMENT

Good Weather Favors Trap Tournament of Janesville Gun Club Held Today.

No. 2 foreign expeditionary force was not bombarding Janesville, nor was any moving picture film company taking a realistic scene of the siege at Verdun northwest of the city this morning, even though the sound was much the same. All during the day there was a ceaseless firing that could be heard plainly in the downtown district.

It was a small army of expert shots, shooting clay targets at the registered tournament held by the Janesville Gun Club on North Washington street. Favored by excellent weather an unexpected number of entries were received by the Janesville Gun Club. Scores up until a late hour this afternoon were so close, with unusual averages, that over a dozen were in the running for the high gun award. There were a number of world famous professional shots giving exhibitions. A small gallery was on hand to watch the gunner cry "pull" and see the target shoot out from the trap, hear the discharge of the shotgun, watch the target get break into dust, and note the deflection on the face of the shooter when the announcer called out "dead."

LEYDEN

Leyden, June 15.—W. Pratt had a cow killed by lightning Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Jess Gilbert is visiting her mother in Janesville.

An agent for the New York Mutual Life insurance company was calling on farmers at Leyden recently.

Miss Mary Fox is spending the week with Porter relatives.

J. Roberts was a business caller recently, writing cyclone and hail insurance policies.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Condon attended the funeral of a relative at Edgerton Wednesday.

A number of farmers are replanting their corn on account of poor seed.

James Conway was a business caller in Janesville Wednesday.

Owing to the continued wet weather corn fields are badly in need of cultivation.

Picking strawberries is now the order of the day. The berries are of a fine quality and the yield is fairly good.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Wormer of Coopersville were pleasant callers at Leyden yesterday.

MILWAUKEE SHRINERS WILL MAKE TOUR OF THE STATE

More than one hundred and fifty Milwaukee Shriners will conduct a tour of Wisconsin on a special train, leaving Milwaukee on the morning of July 25, and visiting about twenty cities before their return five days later.

This decision was reached at a regular meeting of the Milwaukee Shrine Wednesday night. The Shriners will be accompanied by the Arch patrol and the band. The cities visited will include Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Green Bay, Wausau, Ashland, Superior, Racine, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, La Crosse, Sparta, Toman, Kilmbourn, Portage, Madison and Janesville.

THIRTY FRIENDS SURPRISE COUPLE ON ANNIVERSARY

Thirty friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gramke surprised them at their home on Mole avenue last Saturday evening, the occasion being their eighth wedding anniversary. Refreshments were served and a social evening was spent by all. The guests presented the happy couple with an electric lamp. Those present were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gramke, Mr. and Mrs. E. Graf, Mr. and Mrs. H. Gressland, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Twilling, Mr. and Mrs. F. Pauls, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wooline, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gramke, Charlie Gramke, Fred Arthel and family, Anna Berger and Mrs. I. W. Fairfield of Sullivan, Wisconsin.

SCHOOL PUPILS READ MANY LIBRARY BOOKS

Diplomas will be given to Grade School Pupils Who Have Read Certain Number of Books.

Five hundred and fifty diplomas will be given to students of the grade schools tomorrow morning at nine o'clock at the Public Library. The diplomas will be given only to the pupils who have finished reading the required number of books during the past year. This school year has been the first time such work has been carried out. The pupils of the grades were given a list of books named by the state library board under whose auspices the work is carried out. The work has been in cooperation with the public libraries and state of Wisconsin throughout the year.

The pupils of the grades in this city have taken a great deal of interest in reading and it is expected that Janesville will lead in the number of diplomas given out.

Exercises will be held at the library tomorrow morning at which time the certificates will be presented. Miss Eagan, librarian, will give a talk on libraries and their value, and H. C. Buell, who is secretary of the state library board, will present the diplomas.

BOYS OF SCOUT TROOPS HOLD ICE CREAM SOCIAL AT CHURCH LAST NIGHT

Members of the Boy Scout troops in the second ward held at headquarters last evening an ice cream social. Many people attended and an enjoyable time was spent by all. The headquarters at the United Brethren church was decorated with United States flags and with their troop flags. The program given was as follows: Miss Julia Proctor, reading; C. R. Bearmore, solo; Scout (Tall), poem "Courage"; Scouts Claxton, Dobson and Clarinda rendered violin solos. The scout troops sang in a body their rally songs.

"NIGGER HAIR spoils a feller for any other tobacco 'cause it's so much better than the general run of 'em. Before I got acquainted with NIGGER HAIR I'd chew and smoke most anything, but now —it's always NIGGER HAIR for mine, it's so cool-smokin', and so tasty an' satisfyin'."

Thousands of men never use any other tobacco. Once a man's taste gets accustomed to NIGGER HAIR, he sticks to it for keeps, and NIGGER HAIR never disappoints him —year after year the quality is always the same.

NIGGER HAIR

Long Cut Tobacco has the ripe, full flavor and mellow richness that only come from mild Burley leaf carefully aged and blended. NIGGER HAIR makes a flavory chew; it packs right down into your pipe for a cool, slow-burning smoke because it's cut into long, curly strands that made our grandfathers give the brand its name. NIGGER HAIR is real, man-size tobacco and no mistake.

You try NIGGER HAIR for a week — and start in today. Sold everywhere in 5c packages.

General Robertson Mentioned For War Office; Started As Servant

London, June 15.—No more remarkable career is recorded in the annals of the British army than that of Gen. Sir William Robertson, chief of the British general staff, born at Welbourne, Lincolnshire, fifty-seven years ago of a humble Scotch family, the potential future leader of Britain's armies worked first as a pantry boy in a wealthy family in the neighborhood and later became a footman.

At the age of nineteen he enlisted as a private in the Sixteenth Lancers, in those days promotion from the ranks in the British army was a phenomenon, and young Robertson, moreover, entered the army with little education.

He set grimly about remedying his deficiencies, however, at the same time making it evident to his officers that he was the best soldier in his regiment.

His manner of winning promotion was typical of the man's whole career. There were no brilliant or spectacular feats of arms connected with it, but abundance of hard work, unrelenting purpose and steady plugging. Ten years after he entered the Lancers he was troop sergeant-major and had been recommended for a commission, which was given him finally in 1888, in the Third Dragoon Guards.

Commissioned at twenty-nine. At twenty-one, consequently, he was a commissioned officer, but only a subaltern, about eight years older than Pathan guide, but he emerged from the expedition with the distinguished service order, a medal with clasps, and a mention in dispatches.

Shortly after his return from this campaign, Robertson was promoted to the rank of major and passed examinations for the staff college—the only officer on record to do so who had risen from the ranks.

He served as staff officer at the war office until the South African war, when, as an important unit of the quartermaster-general's office, he did more than any one else to get the troops into the field and keep them supplied and equipped there. He began to be recognized as a man who had the habit of getting things done.

A little later he was sent to the front with the intelligence department and was in the battles of Paardeburg, Poplar Grove, Dreifontain, winning a brevet lieutenant colonelcy, mention in dispatches and the queen's medal.

In 1909 Robertson was appointed assistant quartermaster general for the whole army, and promoted to the rank of colonel. In 1903 he was made brigadier-general and sent to Aldershot, where he became commander of the staff college, where his regime is still remembered and identified with a sweeping reform and revivification of that entire organization. From there he went back to the war office as director of military training.

At the outset of the European war, Sir William, then a major general commanding a division, was appointed the youngsters from Sandhurst and who surrounded him. Twenty-nine is hopelessly old, by average standards, for a subaltern who hopes to win promotion; but Robertson said nothing and kept plugging.

Three years later his first chance came. In the Black Mountain expedition he was appointed railway transport officer and began to show his quality. He had put in much of his time in the preceding years acquiring a mastery of native Indian dialects such as few British officers ever have possessed, and he was born with the faculty for organization. At the end of the Black Mountain expedition he was transferred to the intelligence department and sent to Simla for duty.

With more hard work he won promotion to captaincy at thirty-three. But he was still one of the oldest captains on the army list.

Then came the Chitral relief expedition, when Sher Afzul and Umra Khan rebelled against the Maharajah of Kashmir and shut up a British force in the residency of Chitral. Robertson was detailed as field intelligence officer with Sir Robert Lowe's expedition. His knowledge of Indian dialects and his profound acquaintance with native manners and customs made him of great value.

Got Medal for Service. Once during the expedition he narrowly escaped with his life from an ambush arranged by a treacherous quartermaster general of the first expeditionary force under Sir John French, with the temporary rank of lieutenant general. In that office, Sir John French declared in dispatches, he "met what appeared to be almost insuperable difficulties with his characteristic energy, skill and determination."

Gains Highest Rank.
On March 21, 1915, he was promoted to be chief of the general staff for Sir John French, succeeding Sir Archibald Murray, who became chief of the imperial general staff. On October 21 of the same year his temporary promotion to the rank of lieutenant general was made permanent, and on December 21 he was promoted to the office of chief of the imperial general staff, which he now holds, with the rank of general. He was created a knight of the Victorian order in 1913 and a Knight of the Bath in 1915.

"Willie" Robertson, as every Scot in the British army loves to call him, is known as the possessor of the most complete contentment for the pomp and circumstance, parade and show of military life, in the whole service. He is utterly without formality, but he drives himself and everyone under him mercilessly. For years he has been in the habit of working sixteen hours a day. Work is his sole recreation.

Sir William married in 1894, while in Simla, the daughter of the late Lieut. Gen. T. C. Palin.

ONE ARMED YOUTH TRIED FOR MURDER

Providence, Rhode Island, Scene of Sensational and Baffling Murder Trial.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Providence, R. I., June 15.—A unique and tragic twist of fate's "eternal triangle" will be based in the supreme court here today, when James O'Brien, a one-armed youth, is put on trial for the murder of his sweetheart, Beatrice Walter.

The crime for which O'Brien will be tried was committed at midnight, May 31. Beatrice Walter, a pretty little 18-year-old girl, was found dead in a lonely field near the Point, a bullet wound in her left breast.

O'Brien, with whom she had been walking since early in the evening, told the police a weird tale of a suicide pact, and claims that Beatrice shot herself with a revolver.

"Wouldn't it be nice if we could die together" are the words the girl is alleged to have used. It is O'Brien's contention that he twice attempted to shoot himself, after Beatrice sank dead at his feet, but that each time he was struck by his belt buckle and were defeated.

The police and Beatrice's parents scout the suicide theory as ridiculous. "It is murder, pure and simple," said the police inspector O'Neil. "The Walter girl's parents know of no reason why she should wish to die."

It is in this connection that the "other man" enters into the case, who is charged with having been the one-armed youth on trial for his life.

George S. Larkin, 22, has brought forth conclusive evidence that he, and not O'Brien, was Beatrice's sweetheart. He has informed the police that O'Brien twice made threats to kill him, if he did not leave Beatrice alone.

The history of this youth, and that of the medical examiner, who performed an autopsy on the dead body, will be of the greatest importance, and may be the final weight which will carry the scales of justice.

James O'Brien is twenty-one. On account of the loss of one arm, he works as a messenger boy in a jewelry store in Providence. He was in love with Beatrice Walter, pretty daughter of a city inspector.

He was known to be insanely jealous of her, and to resent the attentions of other men, going so far as to threaten them, and to carry a loaded revolver.

On the evening of May 31 O'Brien and Beatrice Walter left her father's house to walk in the woods. What happened during the evening may never be known, but about 4 o'clock the next morning the youth entered the Walter home, aroused William Walter, her father, and told him that Beatrice had shot herself.

Led by O'Brien, the police and Walter went to the lonely spot where she lay. A bullet wound in her left breast and powder stains on her dress showed that she had been shot at close range.

O'Brien's revolver, five chambers empty, was found near the spot. A slight scuffling wound in his abdomen and a dented buckle he offered as evidence of his own attempts at suicide.

He told of how Beatrice, taking his revolver, had fired the shot which ended her life. So confusing were parts of his weird tale of the death pact that he was at once arrested and arraigned charged with murder, on the second of June.

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF ARMY TERMS IN SOLDIER'S PAPER

London, June 15.—A brand new "Encyclopedia of Military Terms" published in the "Listening Post," the official organ of the 1st Canadian division in France, has just reached London, as follows:

"Barbedwire"—Invented by Mephisto. It is surprising that he should invent anything of such an affectionate and "giving" nature. It is used for giving an artistic touch to a trench. No trench is complete without it. It is planted at night so the artillery can blow it up in the morning. A simple but effective device to prevent opposing armies from arguing the point.

"Billet"—A billet is anything from a sheet to a chateau. A billeting party, sent ahead of the troops, is instructed to locate the most draughty and leaky barns in the country. At this they are experts. The generous hearted farmers then inform their cattle and pigs that they must be very quiet and wipe their feet before walking over a brave soldier's blanket.

"Bugle"—Except in a band this instrument of torture is seldom used. There are only three popular bugle calls: "No parade today," "Come to the cook house door, boys," and "Letters from Sister Susie." The bugler who sounds "Reveille" at 5:30 on a frosty morning has no time to spare, he is often presented with anything nearest to hand.

"Bayonet"—This is the business end of a rifle. It has many uses both in and out of the trenches. A few inches of it passed through the clothing of an enemy will convince him that he is not "Über Alles."

"Bombs"—These are good things to keep away from. That if the fellow has them. For cleaning up a "bivvy" full of enemies a bomb is better than a bayonet.

"Biscuit"—The military biscuit "takes" the troops. On active service, his cut are used by the troops to sharpen their teeth on, to write home on, or (when pulverized) to make puddings of. After the war they are used for making roads, feeding crocodiles, or shooting at mad elephants.

"Bully" or "Corned Beef"—The government issues this when it wishes to convince hungry soldiers that he is not hungry. It is served under many disguises. It may be boiled, baked, stewed, fried or scrambled. A candid soldier's job must pass the "bully" beef taste like an omelette; he is called a "chef." If he fails he is called something else.

Cupid Up to Date.

If we ever attempt to paint a picture of Cupid it will look more like a girl with a fish net than a boy with a bow and arrow.—Atlanta Journal.

MOVES TO RE-OPEN UTILITY LAW CASE

Supreme Court Will Hear Further Arguments in Case Involving Validity of Indeterminate Law.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., June 15.—On its own motion the Wisconsin supreme court has opened for re-argument the case of the trustees against the Kaunaga Gas and Electric company. Three questions have been suggested by the court. The answer to these questions may involve the validity of the indeterminate law, under which municipalities may purchase private utilities. The idea back of the case is whether the trustees of a plant may surrender a franchise and accept an indeterminate permit without the consent of the bondholders. All of the briefs in the matter must be submitted before August 20 and some of the briefs in the matter must be in the hands of the court by July 15. It is apparent that the case is of such importance that it will be one of the first matters to be passed upon by the court when it reconvenes next fall.

A motion has also been filed asking for re-argument in the case of the Lange Canning company of Eau Claire. It is understood that this case is considered of such importance that briefs will be filed by a number of outside parties who took no part in the original action. It was in this case that Justice M. B. Rosenberry held that certain powers could not be delegated to the industrial commission by the legislature. The briefs for re-argument in the matter must be filed early in July and the reply briefs early in August.

LOSE ACTION AGAINST RAILWAY FOR SON'S DEATH

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Madison, June 15.—The parents of George Vaillant of Green Bay in the supreme court lost their suit to recover damages from Chicago and Northwestern Railway company for the death of their son, killed while trying to alight from a moving freight train on which he was stealing a ride.

It was claimed by the parents that had there been a fence at the crossing near the home of the boy, he would not have caught the train. The lower

CROWS ARE VALUABLE FOOD FOR SOLDIERS, SAYS DOCTOR

Frankfort, Germany, June 15.—From experiences in the field in Russia, Dr. Adolf Schnee is convinced, and has suggested to the German government, that young crows are a tasty and valuable source of food, and that the old, tough birds that follow the armies by the tens of thousands are a plentiful source of fat that can be used in making soap if not in preparing food for human beings.

Dr. Schnee suggests, therefore, that crow hunting be begun systematically after the government has been convinced of the correctness of his views, and after experts have determined just how crow fat can be purified, and to just what purposes it can be put after being adulterated or added to other animal fats.

During the months of May, June and July, Dr. Schnee says, the young "aced crows" are practically plentiful and tender. In the three months following, the same birds, or still older ones, abound more than at any other time in fat.

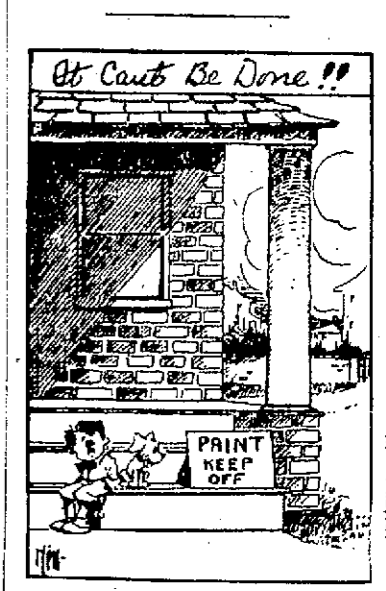

Under the skin of each bird, he has found, there are layers of fat of a particularly desirable character, which is much used by the Russian peasants. In addition the organs of the birds are surrounded by fat which differs merely in color and smell from the fat of other animals that is regularly used.

From a full grown crow there can be obtained, he says, from 80 to 150 grams of fat, or an average perhaps of 100 kilograms from every 100 birds. Put through ordinary processes this yields some seven or eight kilograms of lard which is much in use in Russian peasant dishes.

Even the meat of the old crows is edible, says Dr. Schnee, if it is put through a pickling process of some sort to six weeks with onions, and then served with a kind of cabbage. In taste it is similar to pickled wild boar. Dr. Schnee suggests the creation of hunting parties chosen by the government to patrol behind the lines in the east, sending back to experts the crows they shoot to be "defatted" and pickled.

Secret of Harmony.
Pull together. This is the real secret of harmony. There is a story told of a man who had committed the care of one of his teams to a faithful servant for years. At last one of the horses sickened and died. While the servant was burying the faithful animal, the other horse came across the field and stood by, watching the work as a silent mourner. The master said: "I believe Dick loved Billy." Instantly the servant replied: "In case he did, massa; why, they pulled together high 20 years."—Christian Herald.

MR. HUGHES' CANDIDACY.

"Seriously as it seems to have taken itself in the past, the progressive party is not likely to run a presidential candidate, however much it may resent the nomination of Mr. Hughes and the refusal of Mr. Roosevelt to lead the party he created," says the Wall Street Journal. "That refusal was an act not merely of patriotism, but of common sense. Mr. Roosevelt is in some ways the most accomplished politician in the country, and he knew that the last thing which would commend him to patriotic Americans would be to insure the reelection of Mr. Wilson."

"What the battered remains of the progressive party may do in states where it considers itself too powerful to run local candidates, it is impossible to foresee. That absurd collection of factoids, sentimentalists (since enough, no doubt), cranks, quacks, and gulls, has no doubt still some 'nuisance value.' But it has completely lost cohesion and leadership with the withdrawal of its leader."

"Argument against Justice Hughes, offered by such newspapers as the Times, and the World, on the ground that he created a new precedent for the supreme court bench, in accepting a nomination he had not sought, is ridiculous. The precedent was established by a large number of his fellow citizens, whose right to establish precedents is stated in the very preamble to the Constitution of the United States. We, the people of the United States, do ordain."

"Again, Mr. Hughes' inconsistency is abused because he declined to make any announcement of his position before he received the nomination. His conduct was unimpeachably correct. What would have been said by these critics if he had done otherwise? With tam and innuendo, by every trick and device of politics, by every dexterous temptation that could be placed in his way, by an unremitting and united effort to induce him to lose his head and his temper, by future democratic opponents and those republicans and progressives who did not desire his nomination, failed to 'draw' him."

"Mr. Hughes, enters the fight consistently with a clean record and an unassailable position as the unanimous candidate of his party. He has disposed forever of the favorite democratic charge of the past few months that Mr. Roosevelt was to be nominated as the result of a corrupt bargain with Wall Street. Mr. Hughes' record with Wall Street can be traced from his uncompromising handling of the life insurance investigation in 1905. He learned then that the great and better part of Wall Street is not corrupt."

RECREATION PERIOD.

June, July and August have always been designated as the recreation period of the average worker. It is the time of the year when the employee of almost every line of business takes a week to ten days, or two weeks off and recuperates. To some this means travel, to others real rest and recreation. However, it is the vacation period and nothing is so restful as a complete change of scene and environment. Janesville offers many opportunities for an inexpensive vacation. It is located on a river that in the first place gives rare opportunities for a camping trip, a week's outing in a cottage, fishing and bathing and it is also so near to many of the wonderful lake resorts of Wisconsin that it is but a question of a few hours' ride by train or auto and they are reached. The real vacation for some is to put on an old suit of clothes and rough it. Take a pipe, a good book, plenty of provisions, fishing tackle, tent and live close to nature. This was true in many respects to a large extent a few years ago, but the congested condition of the available camping places makes the outing more one of a dress affair than of real comfort in old duds. Like the old frontier that has ceased to exist, our population has become too dense in the middle west to enjoy a genuine outing close to nature until you have travelled far from the haunts of man, and then you long for the flesh pots of Egypt as did the Children of Israel in the Wilderness. The average outing period calls for an elaborate wardrobe as though you were going to Europe for an extended period. Of course right now you do not want to go to Europe, but in times of peace you did. Where are the men and women, the boys and girls of yesterday, who delighted in old clothes, sun bonnets and slouch hats? Who longed to fish all day, or take a pail and pick berries? Who stepped like logs on tops of mattresses filled with hay? Went to bed after the camp fire had burned out and rose when the fish were biting and the birds singing? Who really enjoyed life and did not seek the glamour and glare and the glitter of the summer resort with its tango teas and its course dinners and changes of costume three or more times a day? Where are the boys and girls who delighted to go to the farm and ride down to the barn on top of a load of new-mown hay? The young people who delighted to climb the apple tree and pick the ripe fruit? The boys who dug out gophers and chased bunny cottontail into his hole? The girls who wore gingham aprons and helped churn and hunt eggs and strain the milk in the pump house, and thought life worth living? Like the red top boots, the mittens, the knit hood and tippet, the woolen leggings and the home-made sled of the winter sports, they are but memories in many a household where the tango, the auto, the costume and the bridge game are the household Gods. One wonders if this class enjoy their vacations as much as did their fathers and mothers and their grandmothers and grandmothers? Environment makes a lot of difference.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES.

The cost of elections is a matter that disquiets all who desire good government. It may cost thousands to get elected even to a minor state office. Theoretically a poor man can be chosen to anything, but practically a barrel is more of a qualification than ever.

Laws controlling campaign expenditure have been passed in many states. If strictly enforced, many elections would be invalidated, and public men so discredited as to be shelved. But it is rare that politicians try to enforce these laws on each other. There is a gentlemen's agreement to keep out of the courts.

Yet over in England where they have had corrupt practice acts for many years, they seem to be strictly enforced. English lords emphasize the drastic nature of these statutes. Election managers of the very best intentions are often unhorsed by the careless act of some over zealous supporter, which is held to invalidate an election.

Perhaps the reason why these prohibitions do not work better in this country, is that the politicians of opposing parties tacitly work together for the interest of the state. They do not care to attack each other for offenses they have committed themselves. They are each too vulnerable.

PHILIPP APPROVED.

It did not need that Governor Philipp be stricken down by illness and forced to undergo a surgical operation, for the people of the state to fully appreciate his true worth and value. One bears it on every side. Men may differ on national issues, may have decided to support this or that candidate for United States senator, but they can pretty nearly always agree on who they are going to vote for for governor when the time comes and they are given an opportunity to talk. Philipp has made good but to expect him to carry out the plans he must be given the support of the next legislature and to accomplish this good, strong men must be selected in every district in the state. In Rock county they are already in the field—Cunningham for the senate, Whittier and Winegar for the assembly. All counties are not as fortunate as Rock, so care must be taken the state through if results are what the voter is after.

There is a general demand that new manufacturing industries be secured from people who wouldn't take a $5 share of the most promising proposition that could possibly be started here.

About now the schools are affected with that serious contagious disease, "Antischoolitis," convincing the learned graduates of the seventh grade that they know enough and should quit study.

Formerly the poor used to have to wear rags; nowadays they are even more humiliated by having to accept some one's cast-off and out of date hobbie skirt.

It is quite possible that these substitutes for gasoline will not so much have the effect to reduce prices, as to assess Standard Oil a good round price to buy up the patent rights.

New designs are announced for silver coins, but they remain in the pocket so short a time that it will take most people some time to become familiar with them.

It is costing the European powers $45,000,000 and thousands of men a day to learn certain truths about peace that America has well known for a hundred years.

PRINCE WHO MAY VISIT U. S. IS ONE OF THE GREATEST OF GERMAN STATESMEN

Prince von Buelow, who according to unconfirmed reports is to visit the United States soon, is one of the shrewdest statesmen in all Germany. His most trying task was his attempt to keep Italy from entering the war against her former allies. That he may have been more successful in his efforts than appears on the surface, it is said by some critics, is shown by the fact that Italy has never declared war on Germany.

HOW MUCH FOOD BECAME SOUR, MOLDY OR SPOILED BECAUSE OF WEDNESDAY'S MUGGY WEATHER ON ON ACCOUNT OF LACK OF PROPER REFRIGERATION?

In every home where there is not a Refrigerator there certainly is food spoiled. To eat food of this kind is to flirt with disease in a most alarming manner.

The small percentage of bacteria that is present in most foods increases at an almost incredible rate during the humidity experienced on Wednesday. In fact, the increase may be just enough to produce serious illness.

THE COST OF A REFRIGERATOR vs. THE COST OF A RUN OF SICKNESS in any household is, very apt to be considerably more than the small cost of a Refrigerator. An Ice Chest of reliable make is so much cheaper, so convenient, economical and handy in the long run that there is no comparison between the home that has one and the home that has not.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATING EXERCISES TO BE HELD AT METHODIST CHURCH.

SIXTY-THREE IN CLASS

Sixty-Three Students Will Receive Diplomas—Pageant in Park Yesterday Is Great Success.

Sixty-three members of the graduating class of the high school will receive diplomas at the commencement exercises this evening in the Methodist church. This is the first year in the history of the present high school building that a senior class has received their diplomas in any other place than the school auditorium. The reason given by the school board for not having the exercises at the school is that the large crowds attending could not be handled with absolute safety. Every ticket has been sold by the seniors and it is expected that the tonight's program is as follows:

Invocation—C. E. Ewing.
"Some Problems of Science"—Henry Ford.
"The Milk Industry of Today"—Thomas Cronin.
Vocal Solo—Sybil Richardson.
"An Argument for War"—George Spohn.
"An Argument Against War"—Stanley Ryan.
Vocal Solo—Manila Powers.
Valedictory address—Lucy Kellogg.
Presentation of Diplomas—Dr. S. B. Buckmaster.
Class song—Manila Powers, John Koch.

Benediction—Rev. F. H. Brigham.
Miss Lucy Kellogg, who delivers the valedictory address, has had her class in scholarship during the four years of high school course. She has had an average of a fraction above ninety-six percent in all subjects. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Kellogg of the Town of Rock.

Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, president of the board of education, will make the address to the graduating class in behalf of the board and will present the diplomas to the sixty-three graduates.

The class song is the work of

HARRY E. CUSHING
Senior, in the Role of Shakespeare.

Manila Powers and John Koch, and will be sung by the entire class. It contains eighteen verses written to various popular tunes.

Following is the complete list of those who will receive diplomas tonight:

Constance Allison, Irma Anita Austin, Walter F. Bidwell, Elizabeth B. Bennett, Bernice G. Billings, Redwald H. Biele, Elizabeth Miller J. Cordell, Thomas Vincent Cronin, Marie E. Crowley, Helen Victoria Cunningham, Harry E. Cushing, Marguerite F. Dalton, Donald Dean Douglas, Marion L. Drummond, Marie Pearl Humphrey, Marion Nevada J. McCarthy, Elizabeth Fanning, Rosalie Feirn, Harvey C. Fischer, Henry M. Ford, Jessica Elizabeth George, Clara Manila Geste, Albert George Gokey, Florence Elizabeth Horne, Charles William Hayne, Genevieve Lenore Jacobs, Harold P. Joerg, Virginia Johnson, Herbert Paul Kalkuske, Lucy M. Kellogg, M. Pauline Kilmer, John R. Koch, Orville Elsie, Edward Kline, Vernon A. Kramer, Myrtle Isabelle Lane, Quin J. Loomis, Evan Ross Lowry, Edward W. Marshall, Leo J. Mooney, Edith Electa Morse, Margaret I. Morton, M. Hazel Murray, Nevada J. McCarthy, Malcolm Francis McDermott, Christina Menzies McLaughlin, Isabelle Zuill McLaughlin, Ivan G. McLaughlin, Mary Catherine O'Hara, Manila Hartzke Powers, Hans P. Rasmussen, Sybil Richardson, Ella Grace Rote, Stanley M. Ryan, Marion Natalie Smith, George D. Spohn, Helen Taylor, Elizabeth P. Van Galder, Evelyn K. Welsh, Maurice Langdon Weirick, Florence Gladys Wilbur, Edward W. J. Wigg, Cecil R. Woodford, Laurence A. Wright.

Without a doubt the pageant given yesterday by the members of the Janesville high school surpassed all others given by the school in former years. A record breaking crowd was present in the park and everything went off in a faultless manner. Much credit is due Miss Faine, instructor of the physical department, as she alone drilled the pupils for the various dances.

Promptly at three-fifteen o'clock the six Shakespearean Heralds came forward leading the processional march. The setting in the park made a beautiful scene with the hills on all sides forming an amphitheater. Queen Elizabeth and Shakespeare, the parts taken in a very creditable manner by Isabel McLaughlin and Harry Cushing, sat on an exquisitely decorated throne. Evelyn Welsh, in the role of Puck, called the dances after receiving an order to do so from Shakespeare that the gathered throng could be entertained.

Following the procession the Heralds came forward with their magic powers and after dancing around a large table the immortal Shakespeare appeared from within. After the appearance of Shakespeare the following dances were given in order: Dance of the Jesters, dance of the Fairies, competitive dance by Heralds and Rosmers, and the dance of the Nymphs. All were given in a very pleasing manner.

John Koch as the Still-man, took his part well but his fellow fun-makers, the jesters, were rather quiet and only appeared once during the performance. As a final closing the May pole dance was given. This was the largest dance ever given at a high school pageant in this city and the winning of the crown by the freshmen girls' gymnasium class took parts in this dance.

The music for the pageant was furnished by the high school orchestra with Miss Dorothy Brigham at the piano. The music was under the direction of Miss Emily Sewell and W. Verill. Much credit and appreciation is due E. B. Reck and his manual training boys who constructed and made ready the different equipment for the festival.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Have Picnic Supper: Twelve young ladies went to picnic on the river last evening. They were taken to the boat at five o'clock to the Bear cottage where a supper was served at seven o'clock.

The affair was given in honor of Miss Dorothy Wilcox of Lincoln street, whose marriage will take place in the near future. Miss Wilcox was presented with a kitchen shower. Those who attended were: The Misses Marion Clark, Margaret Bennett, Wilma Soverhill, Jessie Pruner, Margaret Doty, Lucile Hyde, Beulah Brown, Linda Stinson, Winifred Granger, Norma Ryan, Dorothy Wilcox and Mrs. E. B. Reck.

Zanis, a member of the Home Economics club, has very generously offered to give a luncheon at the Apollo theatre for the troop department of the club. The near future. A meeting of the members of the council is called at her residence, 106 Cherry street, at 7 o'clock Friday afternoon, June 16. A good attendance in order to make arrangements is desired.

Married: Joseph H. Lofby of Milwaukee and Catherine E. Ehrlich of this city were given a license of marriage at the office of County Clerk Edward Lee today. Other permits to wed were given to Paul Jennings of Johnsonville and Theresa C. Slevest of Milton, and Walter C. Beirle of Milwaukee and Helen Schmidt of Milton Junction.

Meetings premature: Information solicited from the state superintendent of schools by Superintendent O. Antikoff of the Rock county system and received by him today, informed that school districts which held annual meetings on the first Monday in June this year will have to hold these meetings again on the first Monday of July. The time of the meetings was changed at the last legislature. Quite a number of school districts of the county made the mistake and have had their business transactions held illegal as a result of the decision of the state superintendent. Aside from changing the monthly date of the meeting the legislature went so far as to designate that the meeting would be called to order at 8:00 a. m.

Still Have Chance: Country school pupils who failed recently in but one or two or in extreme cases, the examinations for entrance into high school this fall, will be given opportunity to receive these credits for high school entrance. Supt. O. D. Antikoff announced today. Pupils who brush up during the summer vacation on studies in which they are backward, will be given examinations in this city on August 24 in the studies in which they failed.

NEWS NOTES from MOWELAND

MARION AND MADELINE FAIRBANKS
The difficulty in telling these twins apart may be imagined when it is realized that in height, weight, color of hair and eyes and even to complexions and mannerisms, they are as one.

Now that they have passed their fifteenth year, "The Thoroughbred Twins"—Marion and Madeline Fairbanks—have modestly requested that in forthcoming releases they be designated as having their names appear in the titles, though not for the purpose of differentiation, having long ago given up hope of ever having people tell them apart.

"We have been known so long as the twins in screen productions," said Marion, speaking for her sister as well as herself, "that now that we have passed our fifteenth birthday we think it best that we be known as Marion and Madeline. It looks much more important, we think, to be listed by our individual names than to be merely as the Fairbanks Twins."

Talking these two young ladies apart has long been a difficult matter at the studios. On one occasion, during the staging of a feature, Director Sullivan, in the light of his happy idea of righting one, hit upon the happy idea of fastening a ribbon to their arms. Marion was assigned a blue one and Madeline a red one. Thereafter, little difficulty, so far as identification was concerned, was encountered. The same scheme has been resorted to frequently in the staging of releases, in which both young ladies appeared.

There is always something new in filmland. Florence Rose, formerly fashion editor of L'Art de la Mode, has been engaged by J. A. Brest to conduct a fashion department—pictorial, of course. She will put out a special reel of fashions twice a month. Accompanying these films will be a series of articles written to be published simultaneously with the release of the pictures.

Clara Kimball Young, now in her own company, has already started work on a film play from the Robert W. Chambers novel, "The Common Law."

A Lubin company has started to film the Rex Beach novel, "The Barter," planning to make it a successor to "The Ne'er Do Well."

The Orkney's

The Orkney Islands, the naval base of Great Britain's grand fleet operating in the North Sea, and of whose shores Earl Kitchener and his staff are reported to have met death, are described in the following war geography bulletin of the National Geographic Society, issued from its Washington headquarters:

No other territory in the British empire has a more tragic significance to Englishmen today than the Orkney Islands, off whose shores the most distinguished victim of the world war, Earl Kitchener, lost his life when the cruiser Hampshire was sunk by a mine or a torpedo.

These islands, ninety in number, of which only thirty are inhabited, are separated from the mainland of Scotland by the Pentland Firth, from six and a half to eight miles, and are selected as England's North Sea naval base, not only on account of their proximity to the field of operations, but on account of their strategic isolation and the advantages of the harbor of Stromness, in the largest island of the group, Pomona, which has an area of two hundred square miles.

The aggregate area of the Orkney archipelago is a little more than five times as large as the District of Columbia, and the population in the neighborhood of 30,000, more than half the people living on Pomona, Kirkwall, the capital, has a population of 4,000.

While the original inhabitants of the islands were Picts, whose round towers and chambered mounds are among the interesting ruins of this region, the Norse pirates secured a footing here during the early centuries of the Christian era, and carried on their depredations against all navigators of the North Sea. In the last quarter of the ninth century Harold Haarfager ("The Fair Hair") laid the rule of the pirates, and an end to the Orkneys and the Shetland Islands to Norway's domain. In 1468 the Orkneys came under the sway of the Scottish crown, and the islanders, by giving them as security for his daughter's dowry when she became the bride of James III. As the dowry was a part of Scotland's domain ever since.

The Orkneys, which are the Orkneys of classic literature, furnished the setting for many of the episodes in Sir Walter Scott's novel, "The Pirate," and the Cleveland of that romance being John Gow, the notorious freebooter born in Stromness and captured off the island in 1725. Another literary association of the Orkneys and one of especial interest to Americans is Shapinsay, the birthplace of William Irving, father of Washington Irving.

The islands were the assembling place in 1650 for the final disastrous expedition of Montrose, acclaimed by many authorities the greatest English military leader of this day, Cromwell alone excepted.

Although in the same latitude as northern Labrador, the Orkney group enjoys a comparatively mild climate, owing to the warm waters of the Gulf Stream. There is little snow in winter and the summers are most pleasant, beginning the middle of June. Barley, oats, potatoes and turnips are the principal crops. The raising of cattle and sheep and the care of a large breed that the famous Shetland ponies is a profitable occupation. Herring fisheries afford a livelihood for many of the people, while a small percentage of the people devote their energies to hunting wild birds and gathering their eggs. The picturesque nature of the rocky coasts and the beauty of the long twilight evenings attract a considerable number of tourists to the islands during the summer. On the longest day of the year the sun rises at three a. m. and sets after nine in the evening, while on the shortest day it is visible for scarcely six hours.

Milton News

CLASS DAY AT MILTON WAS CELEBRATED YESTERDAY

Milton, June 15.—The graduating class at Milton College presented their class day exercises yesterday. The Lamentable Tragedy of Omelet and Omeletella. The play was a sort of musical comedy and a skit on Shakespeare's "Hamlet," which was given the preceding evening. It was also a hit at modern improved hygiene, food that is "chemically" tested and "thoroughly predigested." Corn flakes, shredded wheat, and other well known foods were exploited to the amusement of the audience. After the play a class album was presented giving vivid portraits of the members of the class.

Following is the list of characters: King Claudius—Potted, boneless chucker usurping the throne of Chanticleer—C. F. Gesler. Omelet—His nephew, son of former king—G. Thorngate. Boletus—Lord Chamberlain—C. B. West. Postum—His son—A. L. Burdick. Baconius—Friend to Omelet—K. B. Randolph. Fung Grape Nut—Sunny Jim, Courtier—W. K. Bonnell. Ghost of Chanticleer—L. A. Lush. Poisson—A Grave Digger—N. G. Sorenson. Milk—Mother of Omelet, and Queen—Aster Davis. Omeletella—Daughter of Boletus—Ann Post.

Camella Kidd—A suppe, one of the players—Elva Conrad. A Player—Zea Zinn. Fung Grape Nut—Cecile Wentworth. Second Policeman—Vida Thomas. Third Policeman—Odessa Davis. The annual concert at Milton last evening was given by the Imperial Quartet of Chicago. This entertainment was of the dual high order of merit that is found in all their programs. Last evening they sang with unusual precision and freedom. Many a part of Scotland's domain ever since.

Seven hundred people attended the Shakespearean play at the gym. The German Lutheran church held an enjoyable picnic at Storrs Lake yesterday.

John Thorngate, as the Grave Digger, in the play of Hamlet, was one of the best impersonations in the cast.

Dr. G. E. Crosley is driving a new automobile.

CLINTON

Clinton, June 15.—Palmer Hamilton and wife left early Tuesday morning for Yankton, South Dakota, in their auto, where they will visit Mrs. Hamilton's relatives for about a month. They made 275 miles the first day. Miss Flora Edwards returned Wednesday morning from Everett, Washington, where she teaches school.

Mrs. DeGoy Ellis and son and daughter of Elgin, Ill., are visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. French went to Jacksonville Wednesday, where they spent the day. Mr. French continued on to Mineral Point in the evening.

Never before have so many people in Clinton complained of having water in their cellars. The continued wet weather has completely soaked the ground. Several reports of a couple of feet of water in their cellars. No drainage of any kind necessitates waiting until the water soaks away. It is hoped our sewerage will relieve this annoyance.

A. L. Crabtree, wife and three children, and George Davis of Waconda, Ill., are visiting G. R. Crabtree and family.

Charles Elliott of Beloit, a former resident of Clinton, was in town Wednesday.

Harry Reese, the young son of S. P. Reese, had an exciting time Wednesday morning. He had driven his pony hitched to the little open top buggy to the depot, when unexpectedly a train came in, scaring the pony, who proceeded to act like a real, sure enough horse, and ran away up Main street. Men stopped the fiery steed at the drinking fountain. Harry was badly frightened, but unhurt.

G. R. Crabtree let a box of castings fall on his right foot and as his toes smacked, where Adams and children were the softer of the two, they got smacked, where Adams and children were the softer of the two, they got smacked, where Adams and children were the softer of the two, they got smacked.

The sewerage engineer is finally here on the job again.

Mrs. C. C. Smith and daughter Helen of Milwaukee, who were here visiting Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Helen Polz, and sister, Miss Alta Polz, returned home this morning. Revard Duxstad accompanied them for a few days' visit.

Born, Tuesday, to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hood, Jr., a fine baby boy. Frank Nickerson and his crew of men are here. They are moving from Hammond, Indiana, to Delavan for the Home Coming celebration.

Evansville News

Evansville, June 15.—Married yesterday at high noon, Rev. Zellmer officiating, Miss Anna Kuehl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kuehl of this city to Harry E. Hunter of Earlham, Iowa.

The couple were attended by Miss Emma Kuehl of Madison, sister of the bride, and Harry Kuehl, a nephew. Hunter is one of Evansville's most popular young ladies, and for the past year has been employed in the Grange dry goods.

Mr. Hunter also has numerous teaching here, at Everett, Washington, the past year came to her parental home here.

Following the ceremony three course dinner was served to the immediate relatives, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hunter left for visits at Rockford, Ill., Marshall, Iowa, and other places, after which they will make their home at Earlham, Iowa, where the groom is engaged in business with his father.

Mrs. J. Baldwin entertained about fifteen young ladies at a kitchen shower for Miss Thora Brunzell yesterday afternoon. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in games, music and social chat. Luncheon was served and a very pleasant time reported.

Dr. F. E. Colony, who broke his arm yesterday while cranking his car, is getting along nicely as can be expected, both bones at the wrist being broken.

Miss June Baker, who has been teaching here at Everett, Washington, the past year came to her parental home here.

Miss Sarah Smith of Albany visited Friday in this city Tuesday.

Miss Martha Moore, who has been attending school at Rockford the past year, is here to spend the summer at her parental home.

WILL LA FOLLETTE GIVE SUPPORT TO DEMOCRATIC CAUSE?

Richard Lloyd Jones, One of Senator's Ardent Supporters, Admits He is Working in Wilson's Interests.

St. Louis, June 15.—Will the La Follette faction of the republican party in Wisconsin openly desert the republic cause and enlist for the advancement of the democratic party and the re-election of Woodrow Wilson? There is believed to be a strong possibility that such will be the case at the democratic convention, which Richard Lloyd Jones, editor of the Wisconsin State Journal, one of Senator La Follette's foremost supporters and friends, is here urging the democrats to make a home for the progressive movement. He will also ask the democratic committee on resolutions to draft a platform favoring the progressive cause. He will offer a plank providing for equal suffrage.

Jones believes that the progressives who have been dynamited by their own leader may feel at home in the democratic party and support President Wilson. He regards Wilson as the greatest president since Lincoln.

Asked if he has become affiliated with the democratic organization, he replied emphatically "No." He said the democratic party of Wisconsin had little or nothing. "Only its minority," he said, "has stood for the progressive policies that have given Wisconsin distinction." He referred to La Follette as "the most constructive man in America," and added, "I will work at all times to uphold his hands and fight for the progressive principles he represents."

Bourbonism is Charged. "The democratic party nationally," continued Jones, "is encumbered with the 'bourbon' democracy of the times which is so far behind the times it can not see the president in the procession."

He said the woman's party meeting in Chicago was "saturated with inspiration and determination." He believed this organization is one that other parties must reckon with, before he offered a plank which says:

"Now that there are more than 4,000,000 women voters in this country and the issue has been ratified by the legislative action of twelve separate states and there is a recognized demand for equal suffrage among a large number of citizens, we favor the passage by congress of a federal amendment to the constitution granting the right of suffrage to the women in order that the separate states may, by legislative act, decide whether they wish such an amendment adopted."

Seeking Aid for Wilson. Jones admits he is working to get both the voters of the progressive wing and the woman's party behind Wilson.

Leading Wisconsin democrats in St. Louis are in possession of reliable information that many La Follette men will openly espouse the Wilson administration. The first indication of the switch manifested itself in the republican national convention in Chicago and has been growing. It has reached the point where La Follette will have a hard time maintaining any connection with the republican party. It means a new alignment in Wisconsin.

"THE FLIRT" WITH MARIE WALCAMP PRODUCED BY THE SMALLEYS

plays have made an engaging film story out of Booth Tarkington's narrative, so popular in serial form when printed in the Saturday Evening Post. The picture points a moral, in that it shows the inevitable fate that overtakes a girl who flirts with men and jilts them for pastime—and then was forced to take her own medicine. Well worth seeing is "The Flirt," a photo-play right up to the Bluebird standard.

AT BEVERLY THEATRE:

"The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row"

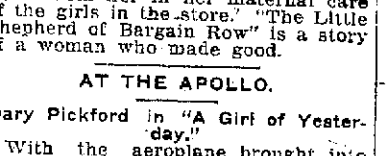

Sallie Fisher, Richard C. Travers and John Junior are featured in "The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row," new five-act feature photoplay just released by Paramount and presented at the Beverly tonight. Sallie Fisher is the famous light opera star and her work in this film is up to the standard she established for herself on the stage.

Women will enjoy Sallie Fisher's interpretation of the girl who fought her way from the tenements to the management of a great store and will follow her through the various trials that confront her and which she disposes of in the big, breezy way that is part of her. They will realize her interest in the things she likes and agree with her in her maternal care of the girls in the store. "The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row" is a story of a woman who made good.

of death and destruction in the gigantic struggle in Europe, it is a pleasant relief to find the screen of a delightful romance in "The Girl of Yesterday," in which Mary Pickford is being starred at the Apollo on Friday.

Not only does "Little Mary" make her first appearance on the screen as an aviatrix, but the production had the added distinction of introducing to the motion picture public the world-famous aviator Glenn Martin who makes his theatrical bow as motion picture player. The film, which was taken in and about San Francisco, also introduces on the screen some of the Golden Gate's best known society leaders who appear in the scenes which depict as no other film production has ever done the real life of the society belle and her steam yachts, motor, tennis courts, golf links and other modes of entertainment considered indispensable to the health and happiness of My Lady of the Four Hundred.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am nineteen years old and will be twenty in the autumn. Am I too old to wear ribbons on my hair if I look younger than I am?

(2) Does rouge injure the skin?

(3) If one puts glycerine on the face while it is still moist from washing and then puts powder on it, is it beneficial?

(4) Am I too old to go with a boy of seventeen?

(5) What causes one's face to become so rough and red with little white scales in spots? What can I do for it?

(6) What should one get for crocheted yoke if one sold it? It is quite elaborate.

(7) Is it proper to stay all night at my friend's house if my folks are well acquainted with his folks and his folks with mine?

(8) I think you are too old. I never heard of putting glycerine on the face and then powder. Some people find that glycerine makes the skin dry and color. I should think cream would be better.

(9) No. Use a massage cream. Probably your skin is not properly nourished.

(10) About a dollar and a half if she sells it directly, and a dollar and a quarter if she sells it to some store.

(11) It would be much better to go home if you live near enough to do so.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What flowers are appropriate for commencement?

(2) How late is it proper for a young man to stay when calling on a young lady who he sees only once in two weeks? He has been in town on a train which goes at 2:30 a. m.

(3) If a girl invites you to her house for dinner when she leaves, say to her mother what should you do?

(4) Is it proper for a girl of seventeen to go to her boy friend's home for dinner?

(5) Is it proper to get dates for girl friends?

(6) Roses, peonies and daisies are the most popular commencement flowers. A florist could make an attractive arrangement of flowers, but it is better to get a bouquet of flowers.

(7) He should not stay later than eleven, no matter when his train leaves.

(8) Tell her mother that you have had a very pleasant time.

(9) Yes.

(10) It is all right to invite another girl over if two boys are coming to see you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is it always necessary to travel in a suit? A suit will be all right if I travel in a light or dark dress?

(2) When introducing my parents to my teacher whose name do I mention first?

(3) Does the older or younger person speak first when on the street?

(4) My eyelashes are black. Do you think that vaseline will harm them, as I wish to have them grow?

(5) It is not necessary to travel in a suit. A suit is found convenient when traveling in whatever you want to wear. Travel in whatever you want to wear. Travel in whatever you want to wear.

(6) If these boys wanted to go with other girls they would not consider your feelings. I think a girl of eighteen is too young to keep "steady company."

lois of the lungs? Is phthisiophobia a real physical disease or a disease of the nerves?

Answer—"Closed" means that no spasm and no tubercle bacilli are given off by the patient. Phthisiophobia is a name given to the hysterical fear of tuberculosis which our three ring circus style of campaign against the so-called "great white plague" has stimulated in many minds.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

All fresh green vegetables should be placed in boiling salted water. The use of plenty of water in the cooking of cabbage and sprouts is not only a preservative of color, but reduces the odor of cooking.

To Keep Away Ants—Take covers off of mason jars and put under refrigerator, kitchen cabinet or kitchen table. Keep filled with water and the ants will be drowned.

For Cleaning Burned Granite or Porcelain Ware—Fill pan two-thirds full of cold water, add two tablespoons of soda and two tablespoons of chloride of lime. Boil fifteen minutes. You will find burned substance is entirely gone.

CANNED FRUIT JUICES MAKE GOOD SUMMER DRINKS.

When serving canned fruit you find considerable retaining juice. Bring this to a boil with granulated sugar. In a short time you will have an assortment of flavors and a delicious cold summer drink, for which use cherry, pineapple, strawberry and lemon.

Other syrups such as raspberry, plum, peach and sweet cherry, slightly thickened with cornstarch, make excellent pudding sauce.

Extract the juice of one dozen oranges and lemons, bring to a boil with granulated sugar and bottle. Keep on ice and at a moment's notice you can prepare lemonade or orangeade in less time than it takes to tell.

Nut Hash—Chop fine cold boiled potatoes and any other vegetable desired; put into buttered frying pan, brown quickly and thoroughly, salt to taste. Just before serving stir in a lightly a large spoonful of nut meat for each person to be served.

Sauces for Hash—Cook six Irish potatoes, mash, season as usual with salt, pepper and butter. Add one onion, cut in small pieces, and one minced onion, form into flat cakes, dip in flour, and fry in hot oil. Enough for six persons.

Veal and Rice Loaf—Cook one cup of rice till light and tender. Put through a meat grinder one pound veal and a large onion. Mix with rice, salt and pepper. Form into loaf. Lay two slices of bacon in a roasting pan. Place the loaf on bacon and cover with water. Cook over low heat for one hour. Add more water. Thicken gravy. Serve on large platter. Garnish with parsley.

Three-Course Coffee Cake—One cup butter, one cup milk, one cup four one teaspoon baking powder. Flavor to taste. Cream butter and sugar, add egg, milk and finally the dry ingredients. Pour batter into flat square cake tin. Bake thickly over top with a mixture composed of half cup chopped nuts, half cup granulated sugar and one teaspoon cinnamon. Bake twenty-five minutes in slow oven.

Delicious Strawberry Dessert (optional)—One-half cup gelatin, soaked in one-fourth cup cold water, stand cup in hot water to dissolve. Crush and beat one-half cup strawberries, add one-half cup sugar, pinch of salt and one cup cooked rice, then add gelatin and mix thoroughly. Cool slightly and add one-half cup whipping cream (need not be whipped stiff). Add cup of whole strawberries and chill.

Queen Strawberry Pudding—Beat yolks of four eggs light, add cup of sugar, tablespoon of softened butter and when these are well mixed, four cups milk. Lastly it may be a smooth dried crumbs and turn into oiled baking dish. Bake like a custard. When baked spread over the top three cups sweetened strawberries and cover with whites of the eggs beaten stiff with half cup of sugar. Brown lightly in oven. Sift powdered sugar over meringue. Eat warm with sugar and cream, or very cold with the same.

Peanut Cookies—Chop or crush very fine one-half pint peanuts. Cream one tablespoon lard and half cup sugar; add two eggs and one tablespoon milk. A big pinch of salt, the crushed peanuts and enough flour to make a soft dough (about one and one-quarter cups). Bake in moderate oven.

Molded Halibut With Brown Almond Sauce—One pound raw halibut, one pint soft bread crumbs, one cup top milk or cream, three egg whites, salt, celery salt. Mince the halibut, fine and cook the crumbs and seasonings with the cream till it may be a smooth paste. Add to the fish, fold in the eggs.

MRS. EVA LEONARD

"When are we to have a meal cooked by the student of home economics?" asked Ralph one day shortly after Ethel had been enrolled in the correspondence course.

"I do not know. I sent one paper in and it came back all marked up and I was told to do it all over. I do not know any better way to do the first place."

Ralph looked at the disappointed face opposite him.

"Oh, come, never say die," chaffed Ralph.

"You must buckle down to work."

"It is a lot of stupid stuff, anyway. Nothing I ever knew about Ethel loved with the fork, her brows puckered in a frown.

"Let me see the questions; perhaps I can help you."

"I volunteered Ralph good naturedly."

"Much you know about it," Ethel's tone was cross. She did not want to do anything with the lesson.

"I suppose common sense can be applied to housekeeping like everything else."

"By which you mean that I have no common sense," cut in Ethel tartly.

"It is said to be the rarest of all sense; besides it takes close application to get any lesson, and that is one thing you absolutely have not learned to apply yourself to anything you do not like."

"Why should I?" pouted Ethel.

"There are so many things that I do enjoy."

"That's just it. Your whole theory whites beaten stiff, pour into a buttered bread tin, set in hot water, and bake three-quarters of an hour in a moderate oven."

RIPON CELEBRATES GRAND ARMY'S GOLDEN JUBILEE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Ripon, Wis., June 15.—The golden jubilee encampment of the Wisconsin department of the Grand Army of the Republic and affiliated societies opened here today. The city was dressed in gala attire in honor of the old vets. Arrangements have been made to accommodate 4,000.

The morning was taken up with the registration and reception of the delegates. An entertainment will be given this evening.

On Thursday the address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor L. W. Thayer. The grand parade of the societies will follow. Gov. E. L. Philbrick will be prevented from reviewing the parade, as was planned by his illness. The meeting will close on Friday.

SUPREME COURT REAFFIRMS DECISION IN INSURANCE CASE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, June 15.—The supreme court today reaffirmed its former decision in the case of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company versus the State of Wisconsin. The company sought to recover upwards of $2,000,000 in taxes, alleged to have been illegally collected. A reargument was permitted on an amended complaint for the purpose of carrying the case to the United States supreme court.

FREE

"He is still a slave whose limbs are long and slender."

How many kinds of slavery there are! How few people who are really free in the largest sense of the word!

"Come to walk with me," I said to my neighbor one day last week. It was a few days, the kind when you feel the sense of spring in your heart so poignantly that it makes your heart ache and the pain is sweeter than any pleasure—when it is almost a sin to be indoors if you don't have to.

"Oh, I'd love to," she said wistfully; "but I can't. I planned to clean my yard."

"Let it go until tomorrow," I said. "AND THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW IT RAINED."

"I can't. I planned to go to town tomorrow. Maybe I'll go with you the day after tomorrow."

The day after tomorrow it rained; a cold, miserable rain.

That's what I mean by slavery. That woman is a slave to her plans.

Again and again she misses things which while because she is tied down by plans and schedules. She is not free to yield to some sudden impulse to seize some unexpected pleasure, infinitely sweeter because it hasn't had half the water taken out of it by exaggerated anticipation.

Other people are slaves to possessions. I know a woman who can never go away for the summer because she is afraid to leave her house. She thinks she owns the house. As a matter of fact, the house owns her, and keeps her tied to its apron strings all the not lonely summer when everyone else on the street goes away.

SLAVES TO "THEY SAY"

Many people are slaves to what people think. They say is a giant that makes people shape their lives to its pleasure.

Comfort slavery is another form of the more abject slavery. I think there are more people who are slaves to their own comfort and ease and convenience than to any other master.

How many compromises with their better selves people make, how many meannesses they are guilty of, how much of the finer kind of pride they sacrifice, because they or those dear to them must have their comfort and convenience.

THOREAU KNEW WHAT FREEDOM MEANT

Thoreau knew what freedom meant. We read about his perfectly independent life and many of us envy him, but we don't dream of emulating. How could we? Modern life has us bound up in its shackles.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free," I love that verse. And this is one of the ways I like to translate it. If you can get the real truth of the meanings of life, the truth about what is worth while and essential, you shall be free of all these shackles, you shall be free of the slavery of possessions and plans, of the slavery of selfishness and all other needless servitudes. Of course you will still have obligations—the obligations that home and friendship and love impose. But your service to them will be the service of love and free will, not bond service.

For ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

THE SINS OF THE PARENTS

Frequently parents have the will but not the confidence to do their duty by their children. They don't know how to go about it. What should they do?

The best way would be to have the family doctor play the role of instructor. Doctor means teacher. That is the doctor's chief business—teaching people how to maintain good health.

If that alternative does not appeal, the next best way is to place good books in the hands of the children, and we don't mean goody-goody books of the kind that make a sick friend who expects you to address a letter of advice to Box 13. The clerk with the dull pencil who wants a prescription for run down condition. The merchant who refers to his previous communication—which was destroyed when read.

The New Clarion

By WILL N. HARBEN

Copyright, 1914, by Harper & Brothers.

PROLOGUE.

This story of rural life has attracted wide attention in book form and should provide an unusual treat for our readers. An ambitious young man struggling to make a successful career as a newspaper writer is suddenly accused of the awful crime of murder in the first degree and thrown into jail. The touching story of the loyalty of old friends and the devotedness of true womanly affection sounds a high note in the fiction of the day. Read also how the New Clarion rose from the ashes of carelessness and neglect to be the great, throbbing, dominating influence in a community.

CHAPTER I.

A Crisis.

ABNER DANIEL leaned on the rickety gate in front of the farmhouse and glanced down the roadway. He was tall, lank, thin faced, with a tuft of gray beard on his chin and a merry twinkle constantly in his dark eyes. Some of his teeth were missing, which gave to his tanned cheeks a hollow appearance. He was about seventy years of age, but was as quick and active as a man of forty.

The farmhouse belonged to Tobias Trumbley and his wife, Martha, and Abner, being unmarried and having no home of his own, boarded there. It was close to his own farm, which joined Trumbley's land on the east.

It was a warm summer afternoon. A sprig of the Blue Ridge mountains rose cool and blue in the distance. Abner was watching a graceful figure approaching from the crossroads store half a mile away. It was Mary, the only daughter of the Trumbleys, a young woman of nineteen or twenty years of age, of medium weight and height, who had a sweet face, blue eyes and abundant chestnut hair.

"I went to the store looking for you," she said, with a welcoming smile, as she reached the gate.

"So, so?" Abner said curiously. "Did you want anything particular?"

"Yes, Mrs. Tinsley was here just after dinner," Mary passed through the gateway, and Abner noticed that she sighed as she spoke. "She seemed anxious to see you and was very much disappointed. She wouldn't stop, but went back home. I told her if I could find you I'd send you over. I knew you wouldn't mind. The truth is she is greatly troubled about something. Mother noticed it as well as I."

"Well, I'll go over to her house," Abner said. "It must be some'n' awful serious as she didn't tell you two women about it; but, to do Sister Tinsley full credit, she never was much of a talker—that is, for a woman. I reckon she'd give a quiltin' party o' cluckin' hens a backset, but when she has some'n' to say she talks it right out from the shoulder."

As he spoke Abner unlatched the gate and swung himself out into the roadway, smiling back at Mary as she disappeared in the house. Reaching the bend of the road at the corner of Trumbley's land, he saw Mrs. Tinsley, a short, rather large woman, slowly advancing toward him. At this moment he noticed that Mrs. Tinsley had observed him and was walking more rapidly. Her head up, her eyes fixed on him expectantly. When she was quite near she pushed back her gray sunbonnet.

"I was over at your house, Brother Daniel—it was the Methodist form of address to a member of the church—"an," as Mary said, she thought you might come back soon, I started over that ag'in."

"I've just heard you was over," he said, "an' I was on my way to see you."

The glance of the woman fell to the ground. Her face held an anxious, careworn expression, and her gnarled and stiffened fingers twitched as she twisted a corner of her gingham apron between them. "You'll hardly forgive me for comin' to you with my troubles," she made a failure of a smile, "but that rally ain't anybody else to go to. You always seem to know what is best to do in a tryin' time."

"I make a stab at it," He was jesting to put her at ease, for his sympathies were already stirred. "When folks are bothered any advice from any quarter is better 'n none, an' I often say the first thing that pops in my mind an' hope for the best."

"This is no jokin' matter, Brother Daniel," Mrs. Tinsley sighed. "I've come to see you about my boy. I'm so troubled that I can't sleep at night or get it off my mind in the daytime."

"Well, you needn't bother about Howard, Sister Tinsley. That ain't a young man in the state I like better or count more on. He's true blue. He will make his way up the ladder as sure as he's got hands an' feet."

"Oh, I see you don't know—you haven't heard!"

"About him an' Mary? Oh, yes; I've had my eyes on both o' 'em. They'll come to an understandin' some day. Give 'em time. They are both young. If ever there was a pair out out fer each other from a divine pattern it's them two. She's as bright as a new dollar, got a good common school education, an' Howard is makin' a newspaper man. He will be editor of that sheet before long. Hillhouse is gittin' old an' careless. The Clarion would 'a' been in the ditch long ago if your boy hadn't put fresh life into it."

"Oh, you don't know all," Mrs. Tinsley sighed. "Hillhouse has not made it public yet. Brother Daniel, he's asked Howard to resign at the end of this week. He's jealous. Somebody told him Howard was the backbone of the paper, an' it made him mad."

"Bad, bad, bad!" Abner cried, in disappointment. "Why, I thought Howard could hold that job as long as he wanted it."

"Well, he can't; an' that ain't all. Him an' his pa is at odds. Last night when he told Hiram about it Hiram flew all to pieces and talked to the boy like he was a dog. You know Howard won't join the church. Him an' his pa has always disagreed on such matters. Howard has a high temper, an' Hiram driv' 'im too far last night. He called the boy a low infidel, an' said he was disgracin' his family by his coldness in religious matters. They came almost to blows," the woman groaned softly. "I ran out an' stepped between them, but an actual fight wouldn't 'a' been any worse than what tuck place. They set down, Brother Daniel, an' talked like two men that had been enemies for life an' had to settle something. Howard told him that as soon as his time was up on the Clarion that he was goin' west to stay."

"The boy has always talked it," Abner sighed sympathetically. "He feels he could do wonders in a new country. I was that way myself once. It gets in nearly every young feller's blood sooner or later."

said, her face growing pale, her lips held stiff. "I've hesitated to tell even God what I'm goin' to tell you. Brother Daniel, I married that man to please my father an' mother. They said I'd love 'im in time, an' I thought maybe I would. I was miserable till Howard was born; then I had some'n' to live for. Do you understand now—do you see? But now Hiram is drivin' my boy away an' expects me to stay here an' be his drudge. I can't do it, an' I won't."

"The thing has knocked me out, too," Abner said seriously. "Everybody knows how I like Howard. Me 'n' him is like two young fellers. Sister Tinsley, we laugh an' crack jokes an' have our fun like frolickin' boys out o' school. When I'm with him I forget I'm an old man, an' he never seems to think of it. I've had 'im leave a gang o' youngsters many a time an' come to me for a fish or a hunt. Say, we must try to keep 'im here. We must hatch up some excuse or other."

"We can't; he really wants to go. He's ambitious to do something big in newspaper work. He says he has never had a fair show on the Clarion. Hillhouse takes the credit for every good line that he writes."

"That is a noted fact," Abner said. "Hillhouse is on his last legs. He is too old fashioned for this rapid age."

"If you don't mind I'll talk to your husband a little about Howard," Abner continued. "I don't know that it will help matters, but that may be no harm in tryin'."

"I wish you would," Mrs. Tinsley said. Leaving him at the door, she entered the house. Her husband had not noticed their approach and now walked to a bench at the side of the house, which held a washtub and a battling stick. He had taken his Bible and seemed about to open it. His brow was puckered thoughtfully, the lids of his blue eyes were drawn so close together that only narrow slits appeared.

"Hello! How are you, old stick in the mud?" Abner called out in his usual jocular tone. "I see you lookin' at your bees jest now. Expectin' them little flyin' bugs to give you a lot o' honey next time you bust into the humble domieyle, eh? Looks like a man that walks with God as frequently as you do would take pity on his most industrious creatures. The longer I live the blinder you shoudn' Christians seem to git. Do you know, I believe custom makes folks do all they do, an' the time is shore to come when bees an' silkworms won't be made to work hard to fill men's bellies an' kiver gals' legs."

"Humph!" Hiram snorted, with a contemptuous jerk of his fringed bald head. "I wonder why you never say a thing that has a bit o' common sense in it."

"I can't talk common sense to an uncommon man, an' that's what you are, Hiram. If the Lord had made you a first ben' 'a' made an army o' ordinary men out o' yore spare ribs. But no jokin', I stopped to talk to you about Howard. I'm sorry to hear the boy has concluded to go away. He's young an' quick tempered, an' right now it looks to me like home is the best place for a feller like him."

The TURMOIL

A Novel By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Author of "Monsieur Beaucaire," "The Conquest of Canaan," "Penrod," etc.

Copyright, 1914, by Harper & Brothers

The harsh roar of the city came in through the open window, continuously beating upon Bibbs' ear until he began to distinguish a pulsation in it—a broken and irregular cadence. It seemed to him that it was like a titanic voice, discordant, hoarse, rustily metallic—the voice of the god, Bigness. And the voice summoned Bibbs as it summoned all its servants.

"Come and work!" it seemed to call. "Come and work for me, all men! By your youth and your hope I summon you! By your age and your despair I summon you to work for me yet a little, with what strength you have. By your love of home I summon you! By your love of woman I summon you! By your hope of children I summon you!"

"You shall be blind slaves of Mine, blind to everything but Me, your Master and Driver! For your reward you shall gaze only upon my ugliness. You shall give your toil and your lives, you shall go mad for love and worship of my ugliness! You shall perish still worshipping Me, and your children shall perish knowing no other god."

And then, as Bibbs closed the window down tight, he heard his father's voice booming in the next room; he could not distinguish the words, but the tone was exultant—and there came the thump! thump! of the muffled hand. Bibbs guessed that Sheridan was bragging of the city and of the Bigness to some visitor from out of town.

And he thought how truly Sheridan was the high priest of Bigness. But with the old, old thought again, "What for?" Bibbs caught a glimpse of far, faint light. He saw that Sheridan had all his life struggled and conquered, and must all his life go on struggling and inevitably conquering, as part of a vast impulse not his own. Sheridan served blindly—but was the impulse blind? Bibbs asked himself if it was not he who had been in the greater hurry, after all. The kiln must be fired before the vase is glazed, and the Acropolis was not crowned with marble in a day.

Then the voice came to him again, but there was a strain in it as of some huge music struggling to be born of the turmoil. "Ugly I am," it seemed to say to him, "but never forget that I am a god!" And the voice grew in sonority and in dignity. "The highest should serve, but so long as you worship me for my own sake I will not serve you. It is man who makes me ugly, by his worship of me. If man would let me serve him, I should be beautiful!"

Looking once more from the window, Bibbs sculptured for himself in vague contortions of the smoke and fog above the roofs—a gigantic figure with feet pedestaled upon the great buildings and shoulders disappearing in the clouds, a colossus of steel and wholly blackened with soot. But Bibbs carried his fancy further—for there was still a little poet lingering in the back of his head—and he thought that up over the clouds, unseen from below, the giant labored with his hands in the clean sunshine; and Bibbs had a glimpse of what he made there—perhaps for a fellowship of the children of the children that were children now—a noble and joyous city, unbelievably white—

It was the telephone that called him from his vision. It rang fiercely. He lifted the thing from his desk and answered. And as the small voice inside it spoke he dropped the receiver with a crash. He trembled violently as he picked it up, but he told himself he was wrong—he had been mistaken—yet it was a startlingly beautiful voice; startlingly kind, too, and ineffably like the one he hungered most to hear.

"Who?" he said, his own voice shaking—like his hand.

"Mary," he responded with two hushed and incredulous words. "Is it?"

There was a little thrill of pathetic half-laughter in the instrument. "Bibbs—I wanted to—just to see if you—"

"Yes—Mary?"

"I was looking when you were so nearly run over. I saw it, Bibbs. They said you hadn't been hurt, they thought, but I wanted to know for myself."

"No, no, I wasn't hurt at all—Mary. It was father who came nearer it. He saved me."

"Yes, I saw; but you had fallen. I couldn't get through the crowd until you had gone. And I wanted to know."

"Mary—would you—have minded?"

"That wasn't the reason." The voice was very low.

"Mary," he said, even more tremulously than before. "I can't—you couldn't mean it was because—you can't mean it was because you—care?"

There was no answer.

"Mary?" he called, huskily. "If you mean that—you'd let me see you—wouldn't you?"

And now the voice was so low he could not be sure it spoke at all, but if it did, the words were, "Yes, Bibbs—dear."

But the voice was not in the instrument—it was so gentle and so light, so almost nothing, it seemed to be made of air—and it came from the air.

Slowly and incredulously he turned—and glory fell upon his shining eyes. The door of his father's room had opened.

Mary stood upon the threshold.

"Yes, Bibbs."

"Mary—I've seen you from my window at home—only five times since I—since then. You looked—oh, how can I tell you? It was like a man chained in a cave catching a glimpse of the blue sky. Mary, Mary, won't you—let me see you again—near? I think I—"

CHARGE CLINTON MAN ON BURGLARY COUNT

Guy Fredendall Desires Examination on Night Time Burglary War-rant in Court Here.

Guy Fredendall of Clinton was arrested before the municipal court Wednesday afternoon on the complaint made by District Attorney S. C. Piuschke charging burglary during the night time. It is alleged that Fredendall broke into the house of Mrs. Lerner with the intent of robbery on June sixth.

Fredendall demanded a preliminary examination which was set by the court for Wednesday, June 22nd, at ten o'clock. The defendant was released on five hundred dollar bond.

The case against Ray Wheelock, the thirteen-year-old boy, who is being held by the police for burglary on the charge of being in the house of Mrs. Lerner until July fifth. The boy was placed under the charge of Rev. Braham until that time, and it is thought if the lad's conduct in the future warrants, a fine being given a chance to escape the industrial school, he will be paroled out for a longer period.

CLINTON

Clinton, June 14.—The members of the A. B. C. their husbands and children to the total number of twenty-nine in response to the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Heron spent the day at the Delavan Lake. The boat was made at 9:30 A. M. Each auto bore in letters bold the initials of the club as auto trailers fastened behind.

Major Humes car was piled high with supplies. All the good cooks of Clinton belong to the A. B. C. but every member of the A. B. C. is a good cook. The day was spent in fishing, playing Auction Bridge and a time generally reaching home at midnight not a single accident happening to mar the pleasure of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Terwilliger and daughter, Mrs. Melmer, started at 9:30 A. M. Tuesday by auto for Omaha, Neb., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Terwilliger's daughter for ten days or two weeks.

Bradley Smith, wife and children of Wausau, Wis., have been here visiting her father, E. P. Babcock and her sister, Mrs. Leon Smith.

Miss Frances Hall of Rio, Wis., spent Saturday and Sunday here with friends.

Daniel Ryan, Walter Evans, Chauncey Strong, W. F. Reese, Mrs. Gibbons and C. Benn have just had the Clinton phone put into their homes.

The Bowman Dairy company's pay day, the 15th inst., was the largest in the history of the milk business in Clinton, the total payed out being over $31,000.00 which amount going into the pockets of our farmers is a great boon to them.

Miss Lettie Baldwin of Chicago is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Almond Baldwin.

M. P. Treat and wife went to Frodo, Ill., yesterday.

Ruben Larson, formerly a Clinton boy, a son of the Larson of the Bergen Norwegian Lutheran church is a member of the class graduating with honors from the medical department. His many friends here congratulate him and wish him success in his chosen profession.

Monday afternoon a junk dealer who has been in Clinton since last fall caused the arrest of Guy Fredendall on the charge of stealing brass from him and selling it back to him.

Fredendall was lodged in our village jail to await his hearing Tuesday morning before justice Cleveland.

Monday night at eleven o'clock eight or ten men gathered at the bar at Mr. J. C. Barker's place on Milwaukee street, the junk dealer, with the expressed purpose of beating up the fellow and driving him out of town so he would not appear again. Fredendall, the junk dealer has slept in the town since he found out he was being pointed. He was called out and a demand made that he leave town and not prosecute Fredendall which he refused to do and was immediately pounced upon and two or three things slugged him. He managed to get away and tore down School street, selling murder which aroused the entire east end of town. Some one phoned Reitzman who, although he had retired at his home in west end of town made his appearance in a remarkable short order and rescued the victim at the home of Mrs. J. Hoveyland where he boards and naturally ran for protection.

A majority of our people are of the opinion that the entire fracas was gotten up by some who were as deep in the mire as Fredendall is in the mud. District Attorney Dunwiddie is expected today and a vigorous prosecution is promised.

The junk dealer, Fredendall, was held in $500.00 bonds to Dunwiddie's court in Delavan, which not being furnished he was taken to the county jail by Marsh Reitzman.

The graduating class of our High school went to Beloit last night for an outing. They attended the performance of the Sherman-Kelly Stock Co. at the Majestic and then had a fine supper and returned about midnight. They report a very enjoyable time.

RESTRICTED SUPPLIES GIVE RISE TO NATIVE INDUSTRY IN WILHELMINA'S COUNTRY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Hague, Netherlands, June 15.—Native industry is more and more coming into its own in Holland in consequence of the restricted supplies from belligerent countries and especially Germany. The latest scheme adopted with a view to furthering it is a "Netherlands shopping week."

When participating storekeepers display exclusively Dutch-made goods in their windows. In The Hague, for instance, 540 stores, distributed over 140 streets, have put the idea into execution, and Queen Wilhelmina is extending her support by a visit of inspection to several of the leading establishments.

Modern surgeon can repair human bones just like a carpenter.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Detroit, Mich., June 15.—The modern surgeon can repair broken bones just as a carpenter can fix a broken chair. The use of nails and screws in uniting broken bones was advocated by Dr. Arthur T. Mann of Minneapolis, in a paper read today before the Section on Surgery of the American Medical Association, which is holding its sixty-seventh annual meeting in Detroit. A series of experiments undertaken to demonstrate the results of nails and screws used through joint surfaces in fractures, were uniformly successful in all cases, in which the fragments were firmly fixed. In dogs operated on by this method, it was impossible to tell which legs had been operated on without the most careful inspection within time of recovery varied from one to three months.

ENGLISH SOLDIERS HAD ARTICLES MADE FROM THE SKIN OF AFRICAN GIRAFFE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, June 15.—British soldiers on leave who had their "empire day" on the boulevards on May 24 attracted general attention, not so much on account of the roses they wore as the curious articles they pulled from their pockets: tobacco pouches, purses, pocket-books of a mottled leather that looked like leopard skin to be graffie skin. These soldiers, just back from East Africa, had been obliged to hunt these animals because they rubbed their long necks against field wires and cut communications. Lord Kitchener was presented with a dressing gown lined with giraffe skin as a memento of the East African campaign of 1914-15-16, a short time before his death.

The Reputation of the Maxwell

"WHAT is the bore and stroke of your motor," was asked a Maxwell owner not long ago.

"I don't know," he replied simply, "I don't buy cars on figures any more. I buy them on what they've done."

For this man, and for many others like him, it was enough that during the thirteen strenuous years the Maxwell record for performance, reliability and economy had swept it to the front.

Figures—engine speed figures, horse-power figures, wheel-base figures—they meant nothing to him. The name "Maxwell" carried more weight than all the technical description that could be offered.

Maxwell cars have achieved this great good will and this priceless position with the public only by their unequalled record of things done. What is said of an automobile in its specifications is one matter. What the car actually does in the hands of owners, year after year, is another matter.

The Maxwell car has won its position through sheer merit. It has set record after record in competition with cars of all prices and classes.

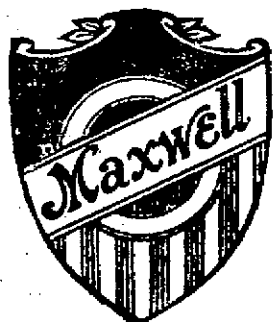

Everything considered, the Maxwell is the safe investment. It is a known, tried and proved product. It will serve you as it is serving and has served countless others.

Let us arrange for a demonstration today. You will be under no obligation. We want to give you a chance to convince yourself.

JIM SCOTT DEFEATS THE MIGHTY JOHNSON

Chicago White Sox Take Four From Senators—Lavender Gives Giants But One Scratch Hit.

Jim Scott, the Elk Hunter, went up against Walter Johnson, the world's prize pitching artist at Chicago yesterday, and Scott hung one on the mighty Walter as the Chicago club won, 4 to 1. The series with the Senators ended like the score, the Sox taking four games and the Washington club but one. The Boston Red Sox invaded the Sox park today for a four game series, and if the Sox can hold their pace, they will jump from fifth place to a commanding position in first division.

Scott outpitched the Washington marvel, and on his fluke single scored two runners in the fourth inning, giving the Sox a safe lead. After two were out in this eventful inning, Scott, with the count 2 and 2, connected by sticking his bat in front of a fast groover, and the ball dropped in right field. Johnson's wildness, coupled with doubles by J. Collins and Four-nier, netted two more runs. Four-nier, pitched the best ball in the pinches, and was given perfect support by his team-mates, the fielding by Weaver and Terry being the feature.

Lavender Beats Giants. New York's Giants got all ruffled up when the Cubs took the third straight game from them yesterday at New York, the score being 4 to 0. It was the first time that the Giants have been shut out this season. Lavender proved to be the Giant killer, and he neatly hit, and that was a pure scratch hit by Kauff. The hit came in the seventh inning and when Lavender failed to field the ball in time to catch the hit, the Cubs pitcher robbed himself of a no-hit game. The Cubs' pitcher achieved their notable victory over old Christy Mathewson, who hurled a wonderful game. Nine safeties were collected by the Cubs, and poor support alone allowed the Cubs' runs. Anyone who thinks Matty is through has another good guess coming.

Neerhoff's homer pitched out in the twelfth inning ended a two out duel between Rixy and Jacobs, giving the Phillies a 2 to 1 victory over Pittsburgh at Philadelphia in twelve innings. Both twirlers were given excellent support. The National league pennant, the first won by a Philadelphia club, was won by the Cardinals. Brooklyn made it three out of four from St. Louis, winning at Brooklyn 8 to 6. Long drives along with the Cardinals' errors, won the game for the league leaders, who seem to be going so good that no other National league club can catch them, since the Giants fell down on their home schedule.

The Braves defeated the Cincinnati Reds at Boston, 5 to 3, in twelve innings. A triple by Mollwitz drove in two runs in the seventh and tied the score 3 all. Magee started off defeat by getting a line drive with his bare head in the twelfth.

HERE'S A FISH STORY THAT IS A REAL "GEM."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Mine Hill, June 15.—Sportsmen, and especially anglers, know of course that today marks the opening of the pickerel season, and therefore the open time for pickerel stories. Here are a couple.

Mrs. John Biddle, who lives in Mine Hill, reported to the police one day that her cottage was robbed of jewels and other articles.

Curiously enough, a 12-pound pickerel, which Mrs. Biddle herself caught, returned a watch that had been stolen. The thief, who afterward was caught, said he had roamed across Budd's lake and dropped his booty in the deep waters. Budd's lake is where Mrs. Biddle's pickerel lives until she landed it.

Mrs. Biddle is not an enthusiastic fisherman, but with a party she started out with rod and tackle. She felt a mighty tug, and zip went the whirling reel.

We will be out on Budd's lake the first thing tomorrow morning to fish for the rest of the things that horrid old thief dropped in the lake.

Over hear of a cow landing a pickerel? True, Bossy was not waiting for a bite when a fish leaped at a fly on her flank and was caught in her tail. This is the story as it comes from Mendocello and is vouched for by one Seth Felton.

Anyhow, think these stories over on your way to the water.

BOSTON BRAVES ARE MAKING A BRAVE SHOWING IN NATIONAL LEAGUE; STALLINGS MAY WIN MIRACLE MAN MONIKER AGAIN

The Boston Braves are starting the season in the National league with all the pep and vigor of their wonderful sport in the fall of 1914. Evers and Maranville are performing brilliantly around the keystone sack and have shown themselves to be among the most remarkable infielders in the league. Stallings is confident that he will be called the Miracle Man again at the close of the present season.

RIGGY RICHTER MAY PITCH HERE SUNDAY

Cardinals Will Have New Battery to Put Against Crack Colored Team Which Pitchers Here Sunday.

Riggy Richter, the pitcher for the Magnates, the best semi-pro nine in Chicago, or Dr. Parker will do the pitching for the Cardinals in their game Sunday afternoon at the Assen Park diamond. If Richter can pitch, the Janesville fans will see as good a pitcher as there is outside the major leagues, and he has it on about half of the hurlers under the big tent at that.

For three years Richter has been rated as the best pitcher in Chicago, and it is only because he has a paying profession that he is not playing league baseball. Riggy is a tall right hander, who has speed and all that goes with the fast ball with a hop on morning that he was going to sign this star for the game Sunday, if possible, and would certainly have him on deck for the coming games with the Beloit Braves. Dr. Parker is no weakling on the mound, and showed some pitching stuff that looked very good in the game which he lost to the Jake Stahls.

RUBE BENTON'S BIG WINNER FOR GIANTS

Mrs. Biddle is not an enthusiastic fisherman, but with a party she started out with rod and tackle. She felt a mighty tug, and zip went the whirling reel.

We will be out on Budd's lake the first thing tomorrow morning to fish for the rest of the things that horrid old thief dropped in the lake.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

MORRIS MILLER

When Chief Courtney reached right into the Cornell shell and lifted three of the veteran rowers out just before the crew departed for Poughkeepsie, some of the wise ones had things to say. The three men who were tipped, Hird, Andrus and Lund, were members of the Poughkeepsie winning crew last year. Therefore, there seemed real ground for an argument. Nevertheless, there are always two sides to any divergence of opinion. See-for yourself!

It's one thing after another for the New York Yankees, yet they keep going. Not that Baker is out with a bad leg and Peckinpah is on the shelf with a sprained back. These happenings give Baumann and Boone a chance.

One of the oddest incidents of a ball game occurred in a contest between Vernon and Portland recently. With the score a tie and a Vernon runner on third, Manager McCredie of Portland walked from the bench and called to Catcher Fisher to give him some instructions. Fisher turned to see what his manager wanted, and while listening to the Portlankepie whinings, the Vernon runner sneaked in home. The Portland pitcher started to make a throw to the plate, but there was his catcher with his back turned and his ear inclined.

Ralph Works, who used to pitch for the Detroit Tigers, does not have to play ball in order to earn a living. He was released by the Angels the other day and ordered to report to the Vancouver club. But he did not follow instructions. He just breezed up to Santa Barbara and joined a moving picture company at a salary which he claims is faster than he ever received as a diamond performer.

Many excuses have been offered for the unexpected fall of the Chicago White Sox. One of them is the constant use of left-handed pitchers by opposing teams. Manager Rowland's team has been defeated by Culp and Mogridge of the New Yorks, Ruth and Leonard of the Red Sox, Harper and Boebing of the Washingtons, Corvelskie of the Tigers, and Weiland of the Browns.

Johnny Evers has a baseball glove that he used for nine seasons, with a few world's championship series thrown in. It is a ragged old glove, with a big glove that Evers ascribes many of his best plays to. When the ball lands in it it stays there. Consequently it is small wonder that Evers sticks to his old glove.

The sheriff has refused to allow any more Sunday games at Troy, but in Albany they are playing them under the plan of the fans "joining," an athletic club. Club dues are the price of the game, which is thus played without admission being charged directly, which satisfies the law.

The Chicago White Sox have a new outfielder. He is Clarence Parker, who had been a college at Dubuque. Last fall he had a workout or two with the St. Louis Browns.

When the Spokane Indians, of the Northwestern league, invaded Canadian soil at Vancouver, they changed Reuther's nickname from "Dutch" to "Scotty." Reuther was taking no chances of being interned.

Pitcher Roy Hitt, of the Vernon team, who was operated on for appendicitis a month ago, is out of the hospital, but it will be at least another month before he gets into uniform.

Armando Marsans is rivaling Ernie Johnson as one ex-Fed who is good enough to play major league ball. Marsans has been climbing rapidly in his hitting and his fielding is a big improvement over what it was a month ago.

It's really remarkable how Danny Morgan keeps Matt Wells busy these days. The Englishman seldom wins, but he gets into from two to five games a month. Frankie Mack, of Boston, gave Matt a ten-round lacing at Rochester the other night.
